Memorial Ghost Bike

By JENNIFER MADRIGAL

Eastvale – Troy Davids was a young man who had his whole life in front of him, until the tragic night when a suspected driver of a black sedan struck and killed him as he rode his bike home from work on April 25. The car sped off, and was last reported turning southbound on Scholar Way. According to a police report, witnesses said the driver didn't even stop. Davids was transported to the local Ontario Kaiser hospital, where he succumbed to his injuries. Only 21-years old, and Troy's life was over, just like that, just after midnight, alone.

It's been over a month and although to some it may seem that the case hasn't progressed

What's Next For The "Desi House"?

By JENNIFER MADRIGAL

Eastvale – The "Desi House" has become a symbol of great pride in the City of Eastvale, with its nostalgic history and beautiful design (the former Corona home of beloved actor, musician and race horse breeder, Desi Arnaz – see Eastvale News, October 2013). The immense 365-acre property that it inhabits once belonged to Bert Altfillisch, a construction company owner and breeder and trainer of thoroughbred horses, who passed away in 2006. Altfillisch's son, Steve, who inherited the home, wanted the Desi Arnaz house to remain a part of Eastvale, Corona, and his father's history. Much of the surrounding property has already been sold off for development - as is apparent by the beautiful Estancia homes nearing completion at Citrus Street and Granje Vista del Rio – but the Desi House still stands strong right in the heart of it.

This year, as part of a $2.2 million purchase, Jurupa Community Services District (JCSD)

The Road To Rehab: Inside A Pot House

By JENNIFER MADRIGAL

Eastvale – The road to rehabilitating a pot house is a long and arduous one, costing the homeowner time and a significant amount of money in order to restore it to being habitable.

A few months ago the Eastvale Community News explained how pot houses are identified and what goes into finding one; and earlier this month we gave you a video exclusive of what the inside of a pot house looks like. But what happens after the police leave? Read on...

Once a home is identified, be it through police detective work or from a homeowner calling the police, a pot house begins to be processed. The Eastvale Police Department's Special Forces team comes in and identifies and tags evidence, takes pictures, destroys drugs in all stages of development, and clears the

Got Walmart?

By K.P. SANDER

Eastvale – Talk of a Walmart coming to Eastvale has been around the town for quite some time. The property at the southeast corner of Archibald and Limonite is the destination of the project, which is still in the preliminary planning phase, as in, can this really happen?

According to the City of Eastvale's Public Information Officer, Michele Nissen, Walmart is still a go. The popular retailer is currently in negotiations with Southern California Edison over a 66KV line that sits on Archibald Avenue. Apparently SCE wants Walmart to relocate the line when the road is widened, but Walmart is not keen on

Restoration Of VLF Funds Still In Limbo

By GLENN FREEMAN

Eastvale – The fate of a legislative bill expected to restore Vehicle License Fees (VLF) to four Riverside County cities remains in limbo, though recent activity indicates it's again progressing through the legislature. However, at least one of the four cities – Eastvale – has essentially thrown in the towel.

Sponsored by California Sen. Richard Roth (D-Riverside), Senate Bill 69 replaces a similar bill (SB56) that previously stalled in the legislature. Last May, SB69 passed the state senate and proceeded to the state assembly, where the bill

Meet Eastvale's Student Liason

Julia Vasquez

By EMILY LUNDBERG

Eastvale - On April 23, the Eastvale City Council's first student liaison, Julia Vasquez, was introduced to the Council. Vasquez is a senior at Eleanor Roosevelt High School and currently serves as the Associated Student Body (ASB) President. She is also a member of the Senior Class Council, and plans to major in Psychology.

As part of her position,

Vasquez attends all City Council meetings, and participates on the Board with the council members and Mayor Ike Bootsma. At the end of each meeting, she provides an update on the happenings at Eastvale schools, including activities, concerns, and anything else pertaining to the youth of Eastvale.

When asked why her position was of value, Vasquez said, "I think it's important to have a student representative because it allows the students, the youth of the City, to have a voice and be a part of something bigger than just school... [and] be an active part of the community as well." She went on to say she hopes, "With this position we will have more action taking place within the schools to make the students have an enjoyable, safe and fun learning environment."

After the summer, Vasquez will turn the reins over to the 2014-2015 ASB President and Vice President.

home of all evidence, materials, money, weapons, etc. The police then contact the city and Southern California Edison (SCE). SCE comes out and immediately shuts off the power. The city sends building and city code officials to inspect the home for mold and other contaminants. The house is then “red tagged” and deemed uninhabitable until permits are pulled and all damage is corrected.

The most common problems that these houses endure are the major modifications made to the air conditioning system, primarily to cool the attic and avoid infrared detection; mold in the ceilings, floors and walls; torn up drywall with insulation removed; pipe damage due to marijuana and corrosive pesticides being flushed in the drains; carpet damage due to “seeding” fallout; and water damage to walls and floors (both floors in a two-story dwelling). These modifications can cause significant safety risks to the structure and any occupants, and must be corrected immediately. Of course all of this is provided that the house does not catch fire due to the amping up of the electrical system to engage the high-intensity sun-spectrum lighting, and bypassing the system to avoid SCE detection and payment of electricity.

According to Tim Steenson, building official for the City of Eastvale, the city issues a variety of permits that are necessary for the safe restoration of these residences. The first permit, to regain electrical power, is kept separate in order to allow the homeowner the power needed to initiate repairs while the home is still red-tagged. Only when the electrical damages to the distribution system have been repaired and approved by SCE and the city, can power be restored.

Another important permit needed is for the actual rehabilitation of the house. This specialized permit involves the clearing of mold by appropriately trained professionals; the repair of structural damage to the home including drywall and duct work; the removal of extra air conditioning equipment and the return of standard flow; and ensuring all parts of the home are up to code and safe. Once all of these repairs are made, the city will then return to do a final inspection. If the home is approved, it can be removed from red tag status. Then the work of replacing carpets, flooring, pipes, paint, cabinetry, appliances and anything else that might have been damaged apart from the structure comes into play.

So who pays for all this damage? Homeowner insurance often has a “no criminal activity” clause, and although homeowners may be able to re-coup some of their money, they can end up being stuck with the costs. Sgt. Davis of Eastvale’s Special Forces team assigned to these grow houses, says that homeowners can try and re-sell the expensive equipment used in the process, (lights, fans, etc.) to try and make some of the money back. The criminals that leave these things behind are usually unable to come back and retrieve their equipment, furniture, and televisions, and the sale of such might allow the homeowners to make a little of the money back. In 2012, a convicted pot-grower in Florida was presented not only with jail time, but with an electrical utility bill in the amount of $26,000 and ordered to pay. Other convictions have resulted in financial repayment to the victims of these crimes, but that is not a probable solution. Many criminals are never caught. At any rate, the homeowner is ultimately responsible, and any restitution from a conviction would be a long, long way down the road.

With all the damage that these houses endure, and the major costs associated with their repair, shutting them down before they start or when they are in their early stages is crucial. According to Eastvale Police Department’s Lt. Yates at the May 28 Safety Council Meeting, marijuana grow houses are decreasing in Eastvale. “To date we have had 55 houses seized and shut down, but where we once had three or four a week, we are now down to about one per month,” said Yates. This shows that the collaborative efforts of law enforcement and the City, as well as the awareness of the community, is working. We are driving these houses out of our city.

Restoration of VLF funds

The bill proposes to move an estimated $18 to $19 million in property tax money normally marked for education to the four Riverside County cities. It stems in part from a 2011 decision by California lawmakers – via SB89 – to shift millions in vehicle license fee funds from cities as part of the prison realignment process that shifted these costs from the state to counties. The shifting of VLF funds was done to help counties absorb these new costs. However, the funds came from those normally given to cities, removal of which greatly impacted newer municipalities that typically rely heavily upon VLF funds.

Locally, the four cities most affected by the shifting of VLF funds were Eastvale, Jurupa Valley, Wildomar, and Menifee, all of which have incorporated since 2008. The four cities have worked for the past two plus years – sharing a lobbyist – in trying to get the funds restored.

Eastvale, however, recently decided not to renew its contract with the lobbyist, saying doing so was “throwing good money at bad. We have better uses for that money,” Mayor Ike Bootsma told The Press-Enterprise. Bootsma says he’s not optimistic that if SB69 passes, that Governor Brown will sign it, thus the City is not counting on restoration of the lost funds.

Michele Nissen, Public Information Officer for Eastvale, says City officials have been prudent in their budgeting without relying on the VLF funds.

“We have been very conservative in our budget decisions (past, present and future) and have not counted on getting the VLF money back. The major impact to the City is that the loss of VLF money takes away our ability to provide more police officers and other services,” said Nissen.

In particular, the loss of VLF funds was hardest on Jurupa Valley, which was the last of the four cities to incorporate in 2011, just two days after the shifting of VLF funds by the state. The new city lost nearly half of its general fund budget during its first year. It has since cut expenses and delayed some payments to Riverside County. But without restoration of the VLF funds, the city expects to run out of money by July 2015. As a precaution, city officials reluctantly began the lengthy disincorporation process this past January.

However, other options to make up the lost monies – including a possible public vote for an annual assessment on property – are also under review. It is unknown at this time whether either option will save Jurupa Valley from potential disincorporation.

Here We Grow Again

By K. P. SANDER

Eastvale – Let's take a drive through the grand city of Eastvale and see what is new and exciting as we continue to grow.

Start in the east part of the City near the I-15 Freeway, and pull into the Eastvale Gateway center at the northeast corner of Hamner and Limonite. Take a gander at the brand new Food Court sign stretching across the area by The Habit Burger Grill and Von's market. The new signage really spruces the courtyard up, and alludes to some wonderful culinary possibilities (have you ever had the pastrami on sourdough at The Habit? I'd call it wonderful). Not quite a food choice, but new all the same is the Cellular Repair store, between the dentist and the forthcoming Tio's Mexican Food. Since practically everyone on the planet has a cell phone, I'd say, "Well done, Gateway." Speaking of Tio's, word on the Eastvale News Facebook page is lots of positive anticipation and reports of really good food and service – okay, that was a few words, but excitement over delicious tacos cannot be contained to just one.

Staying in the same center, now drive over toward the movie theatre where you will find Pho Viet, a Vietnamese noodle house next door to Bamboo Thai. And then right between the theatre and Nestlé's is the Snow Station. I had to know more, and found that their website asks a poignant question: "Have you ever wondered what freshly fallen snow would taste like if it were combined with your favorite flavors?" If it is macaroni and cheese, then no, I have never wondered about this. But if it is a "cold, light, fluffy, cotton candy melting cream that is rich and dreamy and will dazzle my taste buds and is a healthy, lactose-free and vegan friendly dessert option with flavors like strawberry, mango, passion fruit, green apple and raspberry," then YES! Sounds like a great post-movie or beat-the-heat treat.

We are now going to head to the southwest part of the city, so exit Gateway onto Limonite, but before you do, take a look across the street at Gateway South and be amazed by the progress that the Eastvale San Antonio Medical Center has made. That building is up and the exterior is quite polished; it appears to be developing nicely toward the grand opening this fall.

As you pass the Starbucks on Limonite, set your GPS for "the other Starbucks," and head toward the Marketplace at the Enclave, at the corner of Archibald and Schleisman. You know CVS and Jack-in-the-Box, and you might know that appearing in the not-too-distant future are Fantastic Sam's, Mes Amies Hair and Nails, Foot Massage, Dentistry with Nihar Tanna DDS, Lee's Noodle House and Juice It Up; but did you know we are getting a Great Harvest Bread Company? Oh, joy of joys! Not only do they bake amazing, whole-grain, healthy bread daily, but they make some seriously mean sandwiches. But come autumn (and according to Great Harvest themselves, a September Eastvale opening is a possibility) they bring out the big guns...a pumpkin swirl delight that can be transformed into a french toast that is a bucket list all by itself. Seriously, you make some of that at home and a ticker-tape parade will be held in your honor. Just sayin'; its pretty good stuff, if you like that kind of thing (OMG!). Oh, yeah, they're pretty generous with their samples, too.

Now drive home, get your family, and go out and enjoy the new businesses in Eastvale!

front. Smith-Rice is confident that she can meet your needs for all insurance and financial services, and promises to wow you with expert professional service.

A State Farm Agent since 1985 and a Corona resident since 1971, Smith-Rice understands the needs of the community and has worked hard to provide a palette of services that makes one-stop-shopping easy and affordable. Along with Auto insurance, Smith-Rice provides Home Owners and Renters Insurance.

"A home is a big investment, so let's make sure you have enough coverage at the right rate," says Smith-Rice.

As well, protecting your personal property may be more affordable than you think. "The average person has over $200,000 worth of stuff that is probably not covered under your landlord's policy. That's where our State Farm Renters insurance comes into play," she adds.

More important than the care of your property is the care of your family. Along with Life Insurance, the Melanie Smith-Rice State Farm Office can provide various types of health insurance, including Long-Term Care should you become unable to care for yourself.

And for the business owner, Smith-Rice says, "I understand the needs of a business owner like you. Together we can help protect your business and plan a roadmap for your financial future.

As if all this weren't enough, the Melanie Smith-Rice State Farm Office can provide you with financial services such as Mutual Funds, Annuities, and even Banking (yes, Banking!), including Bank Accounts, Credit Cards, and Loans.

City council recap

for Clara Barton's Walking Wednesdays Program.

There were no Public Comments, so the meeting progressed to the Consent Calendar. Items 5.1, 5.2, and 5.3 were approved 4-0-1, with DeGrandpre abstaining from 5.2, and Mayor Bootsma absent.

There were no Public Hearings or Old Business Items. The New Business Items were as Follows: 8.1 - The council members nominated Karen Patel to possibly become a member of the Economic Development Committee. The nomination was passed 3-1, with Link voting no, and Bootsma absent; and 8.2 - The renewal of the Animal Services Contract with the County of Riverside was approved 4-1, with Bootsma absent.

The meeting adjourned at 6:59 p.m., after the City Manager's report, the student liaison's update, and closing statements from the Council.

The second meeting was held on May 28. The meeting began on time with all council members present.

The Riverside County Transportation Commission gave a presentation on the future installation of a 14.6 mile Express Toll Lane in both directions of the 15 Freeway. The lanes will be implemented in the current median, with multiple exit points along the route. Construction is projected to begin in 2018 and be completed by 2020.

CitySourced will be launching their free Non-Emergency Civic Engagement app. It is scheduled to go live during the Picnic at the Park event at the end of June. It will be available for all NON-Emergencies, such as graffiti reporting, code enforcement and parks and recreation information.

Kris Kiltz with the Public Safety Commission gave a report. The number of pot houses is down from three to four a week, to one per month (on average); and the excessive speeding on the River Road bridge will be more heavily patrolled by the Sheriff's department.

During the Public Comment section of the meeting, LEAFF President Rigo Arellano, and Vice President Kris Kiltz, both addressed the Council about the importance of the military banner program. Arellano also presented some cost saving bracket ideas for the banners.

The Consent Calendar was approved with the exception of some items which were pulled due to the unexpected length of this meeting.

Two public hearings were then held. The first, and most controversial one, was about the rezoning of the Goodman Commerce Center project. During the public hearing many residents spoke about their concerns including restrictions that need to be implemented regarding access to the warehouses, load capacities, hours of operation and permits. After much discussion, the Council voted to continue this decision to a future meeting.

The Council approved rate increases for both Burrtec Waste Industries and Waste Management for Fiscal Year 2013-2014. New business items were also discussed.

The next City Council meeting will be June 11, 6:30 p.m., at Rosa Parks Elementary.

Eastvale Resident Passes Away

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale – Jimmy Lee Foddrill, 51, of Eastvale, passed away on June 7, 2014 in Upland. He was born April 30, 1963, in Indiana. Jimmy lived in Whittier for 27 years prior to moving to Chino, where he resided for 15 years. The last eight years of Jimmy's life were spent in Eastvale.

Jimmy was a graduate of California High School in Whittier. He then moved on to receive his Contractors License in 1993. Having love for his work, Jimmy was the owner of Foddrill Construction for 23 years. With great faith and being a man after God's own heart, Jimmy attended Faith Community Church in West Covina and Calvary Chapel in Chino Hills. His adventurous nature brought Jimmy to love surfing. His eye for detail brought him to love working on classic cars; and the hero in him gave him a great fondness for Batman.

Jimmy will be lovingly remembered for his charm, humor, and ability to bring happiness to those around spending the $1 million to get it done. Once an agreement has been reached in this regard, the actual planning stage can begi. It could be a year before it comes before Eastvale's Planning Commission.

Got Walmart?

According to their website, Walmart operates nearly 11,000 stores in 27 countries, including 282 retail establishments in California. They employ 2.2 million employees, or associates, worldwide, and expect fiscal year 2014 sales of approximately $473 billion. Their mission is to help people around the world save money and live better, and try to keep integrity as the cornerstone of their operations from retail transactions to community giving and global responsibility. But Market Watch (Wall Street Journal) has recently noted that the company has reported five straight quarters of declining same-store sales in the U.S., with Sam's Club sales dropping for two straight quarters. Should we be concerned?

As if this weren't enough, CNNMoney recently reported that the National Labor Relations Board challenges that Walmart "unlawfully threatened, disciplined and/or terminated workers for engaging in legally protected strikes and protests." At the heart of this challenge are 60 workers – 19 of whom were fired – who walked off the job in strikes aimed at better pay and benefits in 2012 and 2013. The U.S. Government will have a say in whether this was all done legally, and Walmart could be forced to reinstate the terminated workers and provide them with back pay depending on the outcome of forthcoming court dates. And legalities are part of the norm in any business, especially in one of this size, however the decision could have an effect on employer/employee relationships everywhere.

Despite the recent ruckus, the retail giant could still be a boon to Eastvale by bringing a potential $1 million in sales tax revenue to the City, and another way to "roll back prices" for more than 57,000 Eastvale residents – as well as those in nearby Chino and Ontario. If they can re-gauge their target markets in alignment with new initiatives to better sales, Walmart may indeed help Eastvale save money and live better.

Legendary Care™

Vacation Bible School

By K.P. SANDER

About a hundred years or so ago, back when I was in elementary school, I had what I now realize was the privilege of attending Vacation Bible School, or VBS as it were. In those days they used to pull a trailer up in the front of the school; almost a little chapel on wheels. For a couple of weeks each year I was excused from class by way of a permission slip from my mother, and I spent an hour or so each day learning about Jesus.

I used to love being dismissed from my studies (yeah, I didn't fall in love with school until college). There was something very special about walking up the steps of that trailer and sitting in one of the little pews. I can tell you as a certainty that I don't remember a single moment of the studies that I missed during class time, but I profoundly recall the stories and teachings that I learned at VBS. In fact, I would be so bold as to say that the learnings that happened so many years ago have had a direct correlation to the strong level of faith that I have today.

I still look forward to seeing what VBS has in store locally, and appreciate that Eastvale churches offer several programs each year. Some offer paid curriculums, and some are free (and even include a daily dinner – a true definition of a happy meal). I am grateful that my family is still involved in VBS and that two little boys in particular look forward to it, just as I did.

This summer, when you hear that charming phrase that always seems to accompany children too long 'round the house, "Mom, I'm bored!" remember that there might be a local VBS program just around the corner that could not only occupy their time, but perhaps teach some positive, life-long lessons.

Happy VBS-ing!

Save Some Green On Groceries

By NICOLE GILLES, RD, CDE, CSR

Have you noticed the price of groceries rises just as the summer temperatures do? Over the past few months, I have found myself wandering through the produce section at our local grocery store so appalled by the prices that I end up leaving the section with hardly anything in my cart.

As a Registered Dietitian and genuine fan of fresh produce, I would love to fill my cart with it. But just like everyone else, I have a certain amount of "green" to spend on greens. So after a few weekly trips I decided it was time for a change. I tried another store, and another. One store did offer slightly better prices, but still caused a major blowout to my grocery budget.

If you have found yourself in this same dilemma, I have a solution. As the temperature rises, take advantage of it by planting a few fruits and vegetables. Plants like zucchini, summer squash, cucumbers, tomatoes, peppers, melon, and berries love this kind of weather. Whether you have space for a small garden or even just a few pots, these plants require little space and will provide an abundance of fruits and vegetables for the next several months.

Pick up some plants for a few bucks, and watch them save you lots of "green." The cost of the plants will pay for themselves by your first harvest, and they will continue to produce for months. Another bonus of growing your own produce is getting your family involved. Ask your kids to help you plant, weed, and water, then stand back and be amazed. Odds are your kids will actually want to eat their vegetables at dinner, or even right out of the garden, especially if they had a hand in their care.

Enjoy these colorful, wonderful foods at meals and snacks. Before you know it, you will be getting in your recommended five servings of fruit and vegetables each day just trying to eat up all your food. And if your plants are like ours, they will feed a family of four and still provide more than you can eat. So what do you do with the extras? Share with others, get creative with recipes, or even just wash, cut, and freeze. Freezing the extras is easy and will continue to stretch your grocery budget even after the growing season has passed. But don't stop then. The colder months are great for lettuce, spinach, broccoli, cauliflower, carrots, and potatoes. There is a great sense of satisfaction in enjoying a meal that you helped produce. Happy eating!

Making Progress

By JENNIFER MADRIGAL

Progress is advancing in some way. Progress is making changes to yourself and hoping that those changes make you a better person. Progress is inspiring. Progress is hoping against all odds and actually seeing it happen. I'm progressing in life. I'm changing things, myself, my situation, my outlook, my faith, my hopes, and my dreams. I'm trying to redefine my own reality and see things for how they actually are and what they can be, not what they will never be.

learn to be patient and that I will be given the opportunities to advance both my patience and my courage. Evan (Steve Carell) in the movie, Evan Almighty, said something along the lines of, "We pray for courage. But God does not make us brave; he instead gives us the opportunities to be brave, thus making us courageous". Progress means that while I may not be there yet, I am further than I was yesterday and that I am moving forward.

While I progress another year in my life, I look back and see how far I've come, and that pushes me on to aspire for something greater. We should never stop progressing, aiming, hoping or dreaming to be better than we were yesterday. Life is unique, in that one must always aspire to higher levels to avoid being mediocre. This has always been a fear of mine, mediocrity. I do not want to be mediocre, I want to be extraordinary and exact a change on this world. I need to make goals, checklists, recordings, or whatever it takes to keep myself accountable to what really matters.

The best advice I can give anyone in this regard is to really, seriously, hold yourself accountable. You are responsible for your happiness, success, etc. If you don't like the path you are on, no matter how old or young you are, no matter what your fitness level is, your education or your financial situation, change it! Make progress, even if it just means you take one step toward being where you want to be. Just remember to progress.

What's next for the "Desi House"?

purchased both the home and the land surrounding it to complete the section of the Santa Ana River Trail that will connect Riverwalk Park to Eastvale Community Park. While the primary interest of the area is the need to continue the Eastvale Trail to the eastern city limits, JCSD is interested in exploring the possibility of the Desi House being utilized as a wedding destination/meeting venue, public meeting place, trailhead or concession area.

The acreage around the house is quickly developing as Lennar Homes has transformed the once verdant pasture land into a collection of exclusive homes, including the "Desi Collection" in tribute to Mr. Arnaz. With that project in full swing, the house and the land surrounding the iconic house need to be taken care of. The JCSD Parks Committee is now being asked to authorize the spending of over $1,000,000 to develop the land immediately surrounding the Desi House. The landscape plan was put together by Architerra Design Group, with the best ideas for any future use of the property in mind.

Some of the key points of the design plan include a gazebo positioned as a trailhead - along with three smaller turf sections moving south toward the river trail - which would serve as a perfect south view picture location. The turf sections, according to JCSD, were designed in alignment with the steep slope behind the home, but they also provide an aesthetically pleasing environment. The plans also show a patio and fountain reminiscent of the original style of the home, with an outdoor kitchen area and conservation friendly irrigation design.

At the JCSD Special Parks and Landscaping Committee Meeting held on May 7, JCSD presented Architerra with plans, explained the landscape design, and tried to answer as many questions as possible. JCSD General Manager, Todd Corbin, expressed the need for the staff to move quickly on the landscaping, "as the land surrounding the property is developing fast and site has easier access now."

However, not everyone is in as much of a hurry. Some members of the community feel that JCSD paid too much for the house and that it simply was not needed to complete the trail project. Chad Blais, JCSD Board Director, wants to make sure that any financial decisions that are made concerning the project are clearly thought about and planned out. "JCSD collects millions of dollars each year from CFD (Community Facilities District) taxes we all pay as homeowners that is used to pay off the $300 million in bonds previously spent to build our water, sewer and parks infrastructure, and to pay for the annual O&M (Operations and Management) to operate the parks system." Blais is concerned that JCSD wants to spend $1,000,000 to develop the property surrounding the Desi House even though no architectural or financial plans have been developed for the house itself. He simply wants the landscaping plans to be put on hold until a clear decision for the house is made to avoid wasting money should anything need to be redesigned. He also would like to see the new residents who are going to move into the homes immediately surrounding the Desi House have some say in what goes on there.

During the meeting, Blais questioned many aspects of the plan, including the structural integrity of the house and how much repair it might possibly need. JCSD member, Jane Anderson, and Director of Parks and Community Affairs, Ric Welch, shared various "wish list" ideas for the property and explained some of the policies that the City already has in place regarding facility rentals and noise issues for the surrounding homes. Anderson also questioned some of the landscape design choices as well as other various design aspects. A representative from Architerra was unable to attend, so some of these questions were tabled until the next meeting. After much discussion, the committee agreed to place the project on hold until an overall plan and concept for the house is finalized. Staff was asked to propose a budget for the investigation and hiring of the necessary architectural consultants to develop an overall plan including what improvements might be needed to create the desired look, feel and use of the building.

While there are still many questions to be answered, the Desi House is part of Eastvale and is loved by many residents – much as Desi Arnaz was – and it will remain a part of our history for years to come. The exact future, however, is still uncertain. While both sides may differ on their desires for the property, everyone will agree that it needs to be done with both the integrity of the property, and the financial health of the City and JCSD in mind.

much, police have been actively working this case. Eastvale Police Department's Lt. Mike Yates says, "We have been actively investigating this case from the moment it occurred and have examined many leads. Our investigation has revealed that there was a tan Chevrolet Suburban that may have possibly witnessed the accident and we are hoping that by handing out flyers and getting the public more involved this Good Samaritan will come forward with possible information."

According to a press release, on Thurs., May 29, the Eastvale Police Department's Traffic Division, with the assistance of the Citizen Volunteers, reached out to the public by handing out flyers to passing motorists at the intersection of Limonite and Hamner avenues. The flyers provided a brief summary of a fatal hit and run traffic collision in the hopes of identifying possible witnesses. At the conclusion of the public outreach, five citizens came forward and provided information to Traffic Investigators about the case.

The Eastvale Police Department has also assigned a full-time traffic officer to this case and the officer has actively been following up on the many leads that have come in since the flyers were passed out.

Residents, still shocked and saddened by the hit and run, have contacted various news outlets in hopes of getting the story picked up nationally. There has been some success, and recently several news vans were seen near the Limonite/Hamner intersection sharing Troy Davids tragic story. Eastvale Chief of Police, Jason Horton, Lt. Mike Yates and Troy Davids' parents also held a news conference urging anyone with information to come forward.

The Eastvale Police Department is continuing its investigation into this incident and will pursue any and all leads regarding this crime. If you have information concerning this hit-and-run tragedy, please call (951) 955-2600.

One Of A Kind

By PASTOR TIM EATON

People come in all shapes and sizes, with different tastes and talents, likes and dislikes. We all have traits that are good and other traits that need some work. Sometimes our differences make life together a challenge. On a worldwide scale we see this challenge as nations struggle to keep peace. On a smaller scale it can make living in the same house difficult.

But just think for a moment...what would life be like if we were all the same – all carbon copies with the same look, same tastes, and same thoughts? Would it really be better if everyone was just like you? I mean JUST like you? I suspect that it would not be a world we would want to live in. Who would challenge us? Who would bring color to our lives? Who would we be attracted to (remember, opposites attract)?

In his wisdom, God has made each of us unique. Even identical twins are not duplicates of each other. Ephesians 2:10 says it this way: "We are God's masterpiece. He has created us anew in Christ Jesus." The only thing more unique than each of us is the way God loves each of us! His love is one of a kind. If you have children, you know that you love each one differently for their own unique reasons. So also our Heavenly Father loves each of us for different reasons. But, he has shown us all the same measure of love by sending his son, Jesus, to forgive those traits in each of us that could use a little work.

Give your children the opportunity to discover God's unique love at Edgewater's Vacation Bible School. "Weird Animals: Where God's Love Is One of a Kind!" This event will take place June 23 through 27, 4:30 to 7:30 p.m., at Ramirez Intermediate School. Edgewater's VBS is FREE and includes dinner for the kids each night. Space is limited, so reserve your spot now by registering online at www.EdgewaterLutheran.org.

After Graduation

By PASTOR MARK LEE

This month, thousands of students across the nation will experience an intellectual rite of passage known as graduation. Signifying the conclusion of an educational journey, a graduation ceremony is definitely reason for celebration. But when academic pursuits end and real life begins, many graduates find themselves asking, "What am I supposed to do with myself?"

This question regarding life's purpose has plagued mankind throughout history. The need for fulfillment and the desire to make a difference in the world are things that nearly everyone - from teenagers to retirees - can appreciate. The feeling that you were created to contribute something special to society is understandable. After all, we are all wonderfully and uniquely made. Each individual has his or her own specific role that they were meant to play.

So, how do you discover your purpose? The answer is simple: by examining your life and experimenting with your interests. First, ask yourself, "What do I enjoy doing? What gifts have people seen in me?"

Where have I seen results?" Then, utilize your talents in a variety of different settings. If at first you don't succeed, try something else. Eventually, you will discover something that brings you joy and provides your life with meaning.

The true key to finding fulfillment, however, can be found in Colossians 3:17, "And whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through Him."

When even the most menial of tasks are completed with a thankful heart, you will soon find that life becomes more pleasant. And, when you entrust your future to the One who created the Heavens and Earth, how could you ever go wrong?

VantagePoint Church meets at Roosevelt High School on Sundays at 8:30, 10, and 11:30 a.m.

Be Ready

By PASTOR ROBERT JEWETT

The Bible is very clear that we need to "be ready" for Jesus' return, as there will be no time upon His arrival to "get ready" (Matthew 24:37-39, 25:31-46). Upon His arrival, those who are living in obedience to Him will receive eternal life, but those who are living a life of disobedience to Him will receive his wrath and fury (John 3:36, Romans 2:6-8). We also know that he is coming at an hour that we do not expect, like a thief in the night (1 Thessalonians 5:2, 2 Peter 3:10). Thus, his coming could be at any time, so it is paramount that we know what it means to "be ready".

The foundation to being ready is that we have repented from our sins and have placed our faith in Jesus as Savior and

Lord (Mark 1:15, Acts 2:38, Romans 10:9-10). Once we have done that, we must understand that we are no longer darkness, but are now light in the Lord. So we must begin to walk as children of light (Ephesians 5:8). The Bible gives much practical instruction on what it looks like to be walking in the light.

Please consider joining us as we continue to study through the book of Romans and looking at this practical instruction.

A Father's Influence

By PASTOR DENNIS MORALES

"And he arose and came to his father. But when he was still a great way off, his father saw him and had compassion..." - Luke 15:20.

In the story of the prodigal son, we can't help but to gravitate to the father's reaction to his son coming home. His son had rebelled, left home, and wasted his inheritance. The son asking for his share of the inheritance was the equivalent, in Jewish custom, of saying "you are as good as dead" to his father.

The son lost everything, he was lonely, and empty, when he "came to himself," (Luke 15:17). He had a moment of clarity and remembered his father's kindness. The prodigal son is sorrowful and decides to go back home to seek his father's forgiveness. As the son is approaching his father's house, his father sees him, runs to him, and forgives him before he can say anything.

The Bible says it's "God's goodness that leads us to repentance," (Romans 2:4). The father's behavior had an influence on his son's life and was instrumental in his return. The father's reaction is similar to God's attitude toward anyone who gives their life to Him or comes back to Him. The Bible says God is "rich in mercy and great in love," (Ephesians 2:4).

One cannot underestimate a father's role in the life of a child. As a father, I understand my actions and my words can have great influence on my two boys and their future decisions.

I may not be able to control what direction they will take in life, but I can control my behavior and be a Godly influence in their lives. I can teach them to pray, respect others, and most importantly, how to follow Jesus.

Calvary Chapel Eastvale meets Sundays, 10:30 a.m., at Clara Barton Elementary (7437 Corona Valley Ave, Eastvale). Visit their website at www.CalvaryEastvale.org.

Forgiveness For A Price

By PASTOR ROB NORRIS

1 Peter 4:8 says, "Most important of all, love each other deeply, because love makes you willing to forgive many sins."

I don't know anything at all about what caused it, what led up to it, or even what came of it. But I'm sure it was hard for people not to notice a full-page ad in a Jacksonville newspaper one morning that read: "Please believe the words in my letter. They are true from my heart. I can only hope you will give me the chance to prove my unending love for you. Life without you is empty and meaningless." It was a full-page, $17,000 advertisement, and plea for forgiveness.

According to the ad's author, his wife of 17 years had left him two weeks earlier. She was living temporarily with her parents in a gated community, beyond the reach of her husband. Even her cell-phone number had been changed to keep him from contacting her. But relatives told him that she had indeed seen the large display ad and had left the room crying.

I pray that they were able to work things out. But, again, not knowing the circumstances, this still goes to show you that marriage, unlike any other human relationship, is the joining of two hearts into one flesh. The pain of living at a distance, even temporarily, feels like a limb being torn away. We can't think straight. We can't enjoy ourselves.

This is why your marriage must be a place where mercy and forgiveness are regularly being asked for and extended. Given, received and embraced. None of us are able to always be everything our spouse wants us to be. Only through the power of grace and forgiveness can you live through seasons of disappointment - with yourself and with one another - and come out feeling united again. It might even save you $17,000 and even more heartache.

Live it: Is there anything between you two today? Is there anything that you need to ask forgiveness for, or forgive one another for, right now? Just do it.

Pray: Thank the Lord for His full forgiveness of our disappointments and for the ability to extend the same to each other.

The Crossings meets Sundays, 10 a.m., at River Heights Intermediate, 7227 Scholar Way, in Eastvale. For more information call (951) 847-6836, or visit www.atthecrossings.com.

Chamber To Hold Mega Mixer

The Eastvale Chamber of Commerce is hosting its 2nd Annual Mega Mixer this year on Aug. 21.

The Mixer will be held at the Eastvale Community Center, located at 13820 Schleisman Road in Eastvale, from 5 to 8 p.m. According to President Joel Seigler, "The Mixer is a great opportunity for both members and non-members to come out and learn about different business opportunities in Eastvale."

Last year's Mega Mixer was held at The Eastvale Community Center and hosted a large variety of Eastvale businesses. Members were able to network and social-ize with other business owners and make valuable contacts and connections. "The Mixer was a great opportunity to gain valuable business contacts" said Jorge Razo, past Chamber president.

The Chamber is currently seeking both sponsors and vendors. Contact (951) 768-6000 for more information.

LEAFF Update

By L.E.A.F.F. (Law Enforcement and Fire Fighters)

Eastvale— May was a busy month for LEAFF, and with summer upon us, things are set to become much busier.

On May 15, we had the privilege to present two exceptional Roosevelt High School seniors with plaques and scholarships to honor their efforts in the Police and Fire Explorer programs. Jacob Martin and Carlos De La Torre both worked really hard in their respective programs and we are excited to hear what their futures will bring for them and the community around us.

This summer also marks the return of Picnic in the Park, which we are very excited about. This is a great way to get out and meet your neighbors and community, and enjoy local food, music, carnival rides and a spectacular fireworks show. Picnic in the Park returns this year June 27 through 29, at the new Eastvale Community Park. We hope to see everyone there!

LEAFF has also given their support to WOLFF (Wives of Law Enforcement and Fire Fighters) for the 88iPACT 1st Annual iPact Festival, to be held at the Mid-Hill Golf Club in support of our community, small business development, military, law enforcement and firefighters. The event will feature live entertainment, great food, vendors, and maybe even a few celebrities. It is scheduled for August 2 at 4:00pm. Get your tickets while they last by visiting <http://iPactfestival.eventbrite.com>.

SERVICE NEEDED: After 30,000 miles, transmission fluid begins to turn brown in color and oxidize due to the contamination of time and heat. Deposits form around the transmission's many moving parts. As a result, valves stick and gears slip or are sluggish and chatter as they shift.

SOLUTION: Rather than just draining the contaminated fluid found in the bottom of the pan, special equipment cleans the entire transmission and its torque converter, while new fluid and premium conditioner are added. One of the hardest working parts of your vehicle will shift smoothly and effortlessly for many more trouble-free miles.

Most vehicles. No additional discounts apply. Synthetic transmission fluid extra. Redeem at Mountain View Tire location. See store for complete details. Exp. 6/30/14
