Local Lifeguard Drowns

STAFF REPORTS

Newport Beach – With dangerous rip currents and ten to 12-foot swells, the conditions just off the coast of Newport were rather precarious for visitors on the 4th of July weekend. With over 100,000 people enjoying the sun and surf on Sun., July 6, the Newport Beach Lifeguard staff of about 80 had a busy

Eastvale's DeGrandpre Resigns In Controversy

BY JENNIFER MADRIGAL

Eastvale – With accusations of shady behavior toward unnamed colleagues, councilmember Jeff DeGrandpre abruptly resigned from Eastvale's City Council, effective July 1.

The June 25 council meeting progressed like any other, and then came to an awkward end when DeGrandpre stood to read a letter to the council and public expressing his discontent that the council was no longer about the residents of Eastvale. While he did not provide any examples or name names, he accused his colleagues of "engaging in back-door deals" and holding closed door meetings in direct violation of California's open-meeting law; he then publically resigned his position.

DeGrandpre was first elected to the Eastvale City Council in 2010, serving as the first Mayor Pro Tem, and then as Mayor in 2011-2012.

The recent council meeting was not the first time that DeGrandpre has pointed the finger at his colleagues. In 2013 he accused fellow council member, Kelly Howell, and Eastvale's Public Information Officer, Michele Nissen, of "abusing funds" during a conference held in Las Vegas that they attended on behalf of the City. Howell posted on a local Facebook page that there "was no need for an investigation – staff provided all financial documents to the City Council at the next meeting". The request for an investigation was eventually dropped, but not without causing ripples in the City and council. According to Howell, "It was a very difficult time for me and my family".

Inland United Way Organizations Awarded $500K

STAFF REPORTS

Inland Empire - Inland Empire United Way (IEUW) recently announced that they will be rewarding over $500,000 to 37 local nonprofit organizations, which include homeless shelters, afterschool programs, tutoring organizations, and health programs.

The nonprofit organizations, which were selected based on program outcomes in the areas of Education, Health and Financial Stability, will receive grants up to $25,000 in the next 12 months. The 37 organizations were selected by a volunteer review team, which consists of local donors and community representatives who diligently reviewed the programs that each nonprofit organization offered.

Part of IEUW's mission is

"partnering with other results-oriented nonprofits in the region that are equally dedicated to improving the lives and futures of low-income families and their children in our community," according to the IEUW website.

One of the programs funded through IEUW's Community Impact Grant process is Pomona's Learning Center at Fairplex, which works to prepare underprivileged youth for future employment.

Previously, IEUW has also raised an additional $1,041,000 in the region that was distributed to a variety of nonprofit organizations through donor designations, according to the IEUW website.

Rapper Purchases Home in Eastvale

BY TIANA GOEGBUER

Rapper Kendrick Lamar went straight outta Compton and landed in Eastvale.

Eastvale – Rapper Kendrick Lamar recently purchased a modest home in the city of Eastvale.

News of Lamar's purchase really began circulating in late May. The online buzz stated that Lamar had gone against the typical rapper stereotype and settled down not in Los Angeles or Beverly Hills, but a former dairy community that had only just become a city four years prior. The fast-growing city of Eastvale is home to about 59,000 residents. Crime rates are low, and the houses are cheaper than neighboring coastal areas in Orange and Los Angeles counties.

Cool Off Your Summer With Mr. Tint

day with over 200 rescues and 3,000 warnings issued by the time seasoned lifeguard, Ben Carlson, 32, dove from his rescue boat to help a distressed swimmer close to one of the main piers.

Reports say that just after 5 p.m., when Carlson hit the water and valiantly tried to reach the unidentified swimmer, the strong current and huge swells overtook both of them and Carlson disappeared. Because of the conditions, fellow lifeguards were not able to reach Carlson, despite a frantic search.

Lifeguard authorities stated that 25 people from multiple agencies searched the water, 30 more scoured the shore, and a police helicopter looked from above. Carlson was finally found in the ocean at about 8 p.m., and was rushed to nearby Hoag Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead.

The swimmer made it back to the shore and survived.

Carlson, who worked for the Newport Beach Fire Department, had 15 years of experience as a lifeguard. He was reportedly one of the strongest and fastest swimmers on staff, and had experience with big swells from years as a surfer. It is reported that Carlson also had additional skills as a rescue swimmer and driver of patrol boats.

Carlson was the first lifeguard to die in the line of duty in Newport Beach's history. He was raised in the Inland Empire, attended the University of California, Irvine, and loved to surf and be in and around the water. Colleagues say being a lifeguard was his life's goal. He was a true hero, doing what he loved best.

Eastvale's DeGrandpre resigns

William Link, who was selected as a replacement after councilmember Kelly Howell resigned last November, was shocked by DeGrandpre's announcement. "I was stunned that he resigned. I don't think anyone knew he was going to. As far as his accusations, I am unaware of the issues he spoke of."

The ripples and controversy that were provoked by DeGrandpre are expansive. Many residents took to Facebook to express their concerns about the fraud allegations and resignation. Mayor Pro-Tem, Adam Rush, posted, "I am not aware of any illegal meetings, and if they occurred, I am saddened by this. Eastvale will continue to grow smart and provide excellent service to our fabulous community."

Bill Van Leeuwen, from Mt. SAC, posted, "Jeff, I do not know what is behind this, but it is your decision and I respect that. Thank you for all your work in organizing the city and the leadership you provided. Blessings to you and Deanne as you go forward from this point."

DeGrandpre's wife, Deanne, also resigned her position with the Eastvale Chamber of Commerce earlier that same week, stating that the family was moving out of the state.

When asked to further elaborate on what prompted his resignation, DeGrandpre elected not to respond. Regardless of his personal reasons for resigning, he has left a vacant seat on the council that will need to be filled prior to this November's election. The City must now decide whether to hold a special election, or select a person to serve out DeGrandpre's term, which will end in 2016.

And what, if anything, will transpire as a result of DeGrandpre's allegations? That remains to be seen.

Rapper Lamar lands in Eastvale

The home Lamar purchased is said to have been built in 2006. The two-story residence is on an un-gated street, and is a short walk from the local shopping center. The home is 3,529 square feet, and includes three bedrooms, 2.5 bathrooms, a pool, and is said to have been purchased for $523,500. In comparison to what many successful rappers spend, Lamar paid a very modest price for his new home in Eastvale. Rapper Drake reportedly paid $9 million for his Southern California mansion; Tyga spent $6.5 million for his residence; and Dr. Dre recently dished out a whopping $40 million on an estate in Brentwood.

A few Eastvale residents have recently tweeted that they have spotted the star cruising around town in a sports car and visiting the city's Picnic in the Park summer carnival. However, Lamar says that he plans on remaining in his current home in L.A.

Two Women Indicted In Immigrant Scheme

According to a news release from the United States Attorney's Office, Claudia Arreola, 35, of El Monte, who owns California Immigration Services (CIS), and her business associate, Leticia Gutierrez, 35, of Pico Rivera, were taken into custody by special agents with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's Homeland Security Investigations (HSI). The two women were charged in a six-count indictment returned on June 24 by a federal grand jury.

"Fraud scams run by so-called notarios threaten the integrity of the immigration process and offer false hope to desperate people," said United States Attorney André Birotte, Jr. "The two women in this case victimized immigrants for years by giving the false impression that they could fix immigration problems."

According to the indictment, the defendants submitted paperwork to U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) on behalf of six foreign nationals who were seeking to obtain green cards - or permanent resident status - based on legitimate marriages to U.S. citizens. The applications filed by the defendants allegedly included fraudulent I-94 cards indicating that the immigrants, who originally came to the U.S. illegally, entered lawfully on visitors' visas.

The immigrant victims were originally quoted fees of approximately $7,000, but the defendants ultimately charged them as much as $24,000. To pay the debt, some of the couples borrowed against their credit cards or obtained loans from family and friends. Subsequently, investigators say when several of the foreign nationals sought refunds after they failed to receive green cards, the defendants allegedly threatened to contact authorities and have the aliens deported.

"Tragically, as is often true in such scams, at least some of the victims in this case could have obtained green cards legally," said Claude Arnold, special agent in charge for HSI Los Angeles. "Instead, they placed their trust and, in many cases, their life savings in the hands of individuals who were focused on enriching themselves, rather than on helping hopeful immigrants realize the American dream."

Investigators say the similarity between the name and acronym for Arreola's consulting business and USCIS, the Department of Homeland Security agency that adjudicates applications for immigration benefits, was no coincidence. Evidence developed during the investigation showed that money orders and cashier's checks made out to USCIS had been deposited in bank accounts controlled by defendants.

The probe targeting Arreola's CIS began in 2011 after HSI received leads from USCIS's Fraud Detection and National Security directorate involving several suspicious benefit applications. While only six instances of fraud are charged in the case indictment, authorities believe the scheme is responsible for dozens of fraudulent benefit applications.

"Arreola victimized immigrants for personal gain by pretending to be associated with USCIS," said USCIS FDNS Western Regional Assistant Director Ken Takeda. "We are committed to upholding the integrity of our immigration system by combating these deceptive practices. USCIS strongly encourages the public to seek legal advice or representation from attorneys or accredited representatives."

If Arreola and Gutierrez are convicted, both defendants face a statutory maximum penalty of 60 years in federal prison.

In 2003, the Attorney General of the State of California filed suit against Arreola and Gutierrez, among others, alleging that defendants had engaged in an illegal scheme to provide immigration services in violation of California law. Both Arreola and Gutierrez entered into settlement agreements in which they promised not to engage in illegal immigration consulting services in violation of California law, specifically agreeing not to promise certain benefits or results in immigration cases. In 2006, the defendants began operating California Immigration Services and engaging in the conduct alleged in the indictment.

This case is part of an ongoing, nationwide effort by the Department of Justice and the Department of Homeland Security to target unscrupulous immigration practitioners and combat the unauthorized practice of immigration law. The initiative relies on federal, state and local resources to combat the widespread problem of unauthorized practice of immigration law. Other partners involved in the Los Angeles effort include the Federal Trade Commission, the Los Angeles County Department of Consumer Affairs, the State Bar of California, the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office, the Los Angeles City Attorney's Office, and the Attorney General's Office of the State of California. For more information on the initiative, please visit <http://www.uscis.gov/news/national-initiative-combat-immigration-services-scams>.

HSI and USCIS believe there are additional victims in this case who have not yet been identified. Call the L.A. County Department of Consumer Affairs at (800) 593-8222 to seek assistance or get information.

VALVOLINE TRANSMISSION SERVICE

MUST PRESENT COUPON TO GET THIS PRICE

SERVICE NEEDED: After 30,000 miles, transmission fluid begins to turn brown in color and oxidize due to the contamination of time and heat. Deposits form around the transmission's many moving parts. As a result, valves stick and gears slip or are sluggish and chatter as they shift.

SOLUTION: Rather than just draining the contaminated fluid found in the bottom of the pan, special equipment cleans the entire transmission and its torque converter, while new fluid and premium conditioner are added. One of the hardest working parts of your vehicle will shift smoothly and effortlessly for many more trouble-free miles.

Most vehicles. No additional discounts apply. Synthetic transmission fluid extra. Redem. at Mountain View Tire location. See store for complete details. Exp. 7/31/14
