Seven Things They Don't Tell You About Marriage

By SARAH SANCHEZ

I married my best friend this past June, and I believe I've settled into the routine of my new married life. I can look back over the last year and honestly say that no one prepared me and my husband for marriage. Even though we took a pre-marital course and were given advice from family and friends, there are still things that no one told us about.

Now don't get me wrong, I love my husband and I love our marriage. This is not a complaining session, but an informative piece. If I had been given this list before the wedding, I don't think I would have been so shocked with the changes. So pass this along to any engaged or newly married couples you may know, and you'll save them a few surprises.

#7 – Communication And Compromise Are Key: Marriage is about becoming one unit, and this "all for one, one for all" mentality can be a little tough to get used to. You will be making sacrifices throughout your marriage, mainly because it's not just about you anymore; it's all about the "we". You are a team now and you need to constantly be on the same page. But if you communicate and compromise with one another, then both of you can be happy with the decisions that are made.

#6 – You Will Become One; But So Does Your Bank Account: If you and your spouse put all your money into a joint bank account, all of it now belongs to both of you and you have to learn to budget EVERYTHING. This can be tough because budgeting your money makes you realize how much you need to cut down on going out to eat, and how much groceries and gasoline really cost. My suggestion is to print out a budget sheet online, fill it out every month, and – oddly enough - actually follow it by writing down every expense you make every single day. Dave Ramsey has an awesome book and class you can take that will benefit you as well.

#5 – Men And Women Are Wired Differently: This particular point actually became quite clear to us after reading a daily devotional called, "The Love and Respect Experience," by Dr. Emerson Eggerichs. We learned that men and women are very different in almost every aspect: emotionally, physically, sexually, etc. As expressed in the book, a way to look at it is that women wear pink glasses and hearing aids, and men wear blue glasses and hearing aids. When you are in a disagreement, men occasionally need to put on the pink glasses and hearing aids, and women occasionally have to put on the blue glasses and hearing aids, in order to understand how the other is feeling. Sometimes it's just about perspective.

#4 -- When You Say 'I Do', You Marry The Family Too: When you get married, it's a package deal, meaning the in-laws come along with the spouse. Therefore, it's better to put your differences aside and try to be civil with one another. A trick my husband and I use is that we confront our own families, and not our in-laws. For example, if the problem is with my side of the family, then I will be the one to confront the family member. But if the problem is with my husband's side of the family, then he will be the one to confront the family member. That way, the relationships with our in-laws aren't jeopardized with the confrontation. The bottom line is to try to find a way to keep the peace and don't let the little things bother you. Also, remember that every family is different, so the way your in-laws act may be very different than the way you grew up. It's not wrong, just different; keep that in mind.

#3 – Pick Your Battles: There is a difference between a disagreement and a fight. From my experience, disagreements are more about bickering, while fights are the escalated form of a disagreement that usually includes some form of yelling at each other; perhaps a slammed door or two. My advice is to pick your battles, otherwise you'll fight about the most ridiculous things. Our first fight as a married couple was about boxes. No underlying issues. Just boxes. Everybody is entitled to their opinion, and there will be conflicts in your marriage; so aim for disagreements, not fights.

#2 – Learn to Embrace Your Spouse's Differences: You have to remember that you are two very different people who grew up in very different homes. There are certain habits, flaws, and pet peeves your spouse will have that may be very different from what you are used to. As long as their habits aren't hurting anyone, life will be much easier for you if you learn to accept your spouse's differences instead of trying to change them. You know how hard it is to change your own behavior, even when you want to. The pressure increases significantly when someone else wants you to change a behavior that you'd rather not. Refer to #3.

#1 – Your Spouse Is Not - And Will Never Be - The Same Person You Married: This is the number one thing that they don't tell you about marriage. It sounds bad, but it doesn't have to be. One of the most common reasons people get divorced is because their spouse is "not the same person they married". Every relationship has phases. For example, you start with the person you date (on best behavior); then comes the person you're engaged to (you still know the person, but the façade starts to crack a bit); and finally, you end up with the person you marry (where, oh where, is my fiancé?). So if you go into the marriage knowing there will be changes, your expectations will be better balanced. I've only been married to my husband for eight months, and I can honestly say we both have already changed since the day we got married. I learn new things about him every day, even with dating him for four years prior. He has new dreams, new goals, and new personality traits I've never seen before. He's noticed the same in me, too, and that's okay, because we married each other for who we were to become, not the people we were at that moment. You can be very different, and still grow together, which is the goal anyway.

Marriage is an amazing experience and I wouldn't trade it for anything. Yes, by the list above, it is tough and there is a lot of learning you have to do. But once you get it down, it's so wonderful to have someone who cares for you, who loves you, who supports you, and is there by your side through all of life's adventures. For better or worse..."The best is yet to be, come marry me."

Did You Know?

By K.P. SANDER

Ah, l'amour! It's the stuff that makes the world go 'round, vous ne trouvez pas? St. Valentine might have a thing or two to say about that.

This Sat., Feb. 14, millions of people around the world will celebrate Valentine's Day with their sweetheart by way of candy, flowers, cards, dinner out – or with extravagant gifts of jewelry and marriage proposals. Elementary school children still pass out cards to their classrooms, making little girls think of a secret admirer (and little boys think, "Ew!")

More factually speaking, it all began as a church celebration centered on early Christian saints named Valentinus, and was often associated with martyrdom. Wikipedia states an account of Saint Valentine of Rome, who was imprisoned by Roman Emperor, Claudius II, for Christianity. This particular St. Valentine healed Julia, the blind daughter of his jailer – according to legend - and in a farewell letter sent to her before his execution, he signed, "Your Valentine." The jailer, Asterius, and his household of 44 family members and servants came to believe in Jesus because of this miracle and were baptized.

Before the greeting card industry embellished it to what it is today, St. Valentine's Day was first linked to romantic love in 18th century England, when courtly love flourished. Lovers often expressed their love through the presentation of flowers, sweets and special cards called, valentines – traditions that are common today.

However you spend your Valentine's Day, remember to tell someone that you love them, in remembrance of St. Valentine, who lost his life for the love of Jesus.

Candle Fire Safety

STAFF REPORTS

Chino - According to the Chino Valley Fire District, Firefighters have responded to two residential structure fires since Jan. 1 that ignited as a result of unattended candles. According to the National Fire Protection Association, there are approximately 29 residential structure fires reported each day that are related to candles, with nearly half of those fires occurring when some form of combustible material was left on or came too close to the candle.

Do not become a statistic, use candles safely. Candle fires can be very damaging, but they are completely preventable. Below are some tips that will help you prevent this type of fire in your home.

- Always keep a burning candle within sight
- Never burn candles on or near anything that can catch fire
- Always keep burning candles out of the reach of children and pets

- Never use candles as a source of heat
- Always use an appropriate candleholder and place it on a stable, heat-resistant surface
- Extinguish all candles when leaving the house, room of use, or when going to bed
- Ensure that you have smoke alarms correctly installed and that they are in good working order

For more information on fire safety and smoke alarms, please visit www.chinovalley-fire.org.

volunteers. Diamond Bar City Council members along with representatives from Supervisor

Don Knabe's office and Congressman Ed Royce's office joined County Librarian Margaret Todd, Diamond Bar Librarian Pui Ching Ho and the Diamond Bar Friends' board to acknowledge our outstanding volunteers for 2014.

Outgoing President, Ruth Low, and incoming President, Chris Ko, presented the "Outstanding Friend" award to Congressman Ed Royce and recognized him for his commitment to literacy and libraries. Congressman Royce was instrumental in bringing David S. Mao, the Law Librarian of Congress, for Read Together Diamond Bar in October 2014. They also presented the "President's Award" to Nancy Lyons, Rick Rogers and Tony Torng as the "Three Amigos" for their huge commitment as co-chairs of the annual Wine Soirée for many years. The 22nd Annual Wine Soirée will be held on Sun., April 26.

Loretta Nelson was awarded the "Bookstore Volunteer of the Year" for her dedication to Basically BOOKS; Shery Fan, CPA, received the "Business Volunteer of the Year" award for her professional expertise to the Friends; and Kathleen Newe received the "Volunteer of the Year" award for her many years of service to the Friends. All of these awardees - along with so many of our volunteers - have made positive and significant contributions to the Diamond Bar Library and literacy in our community. Thank you all!

Corona bank robbery ends in fatality

Police.

According to the Corona Police Department, Officers responded to the bank at approximately 4:07 p.m., to find the suspect had fled after an alleged carjacking. Through the use of a tracking device bank employees were able to place with the money, Officers were quickly able to locate the suspect vehicle and a chase ensued.

As the Officers attempted a high risk enforcement stop, the vehicle briefly stopped near San Antonio and Bickmore avenues in Chino. The female driver - later identified as Patricia Cheree Smith, 26, of Hemet - exited the vehicle and was contacted by Police. The suspect fled the area in the vehicle with Officers in pursuit.

Smith initially told Officers she had been the victim of a car-jacking, and the unknown suspect had a gun. Corona Police Detectives conducted a follow-up interview with Smith and determined that she was involved in the robbery. Smith was arrested for robbery and additional criminal charges are pending.

The pursuit ended when the suspect vehicle crashed off the 71 Expressway. As the suspect exited the vehicle, he was struck multiple times by Police gunfire and was pronounced deceased at the scene. The suspect was identified as Paul Alfred Eugene Johnson, 59, of Hemet. Further investigation revealed a large sum of cash, an unknown type handgun, and additional evidence linking Johnson and the vehicle to the bank robbery in Corona.

Corona Police Detectives conducted a follow-up investigation related to the Pacific Premier Bank robbery. Based on the information gathered, detectives obtained a search warrant for a residence located in the 26000 block of Cortrite Ave. in the City of Hemet.

On Fri., Feb. 6, Officers from the Corona Police Department's Special Response Team served the search warrant seeking additional evidence to support their investigation, additional suspects and other similar bank robberies throughout Southern California.

This particular incident is a large, multi-jurisdictional investigation. The Corona Police Department is handling the bank robbery and vehicle pursuit, while the San Bernardino County Sheriff's Department is investigating the officer-involved shooting in their jurisdiction. All officers are currently on paid administrative leave, per Department policy.

The Corona Police Department is seeking public assistance and is asking anyone having information related to the bank robbery to please call Senior Detective Dan Bloomfield at (951) 817-5767.

The ABCs Of A More Confident Future

- Do you want to get a higher interest rate than what your bank is currently offering?
- Would you like the ability to borrow against your savings, pay the loan interest to yourself, and be allowed to pay back your loan at your convenience, on a tax free basis?
- Are you tired of losing money on risky investments sold to you on best case assumptions?
- Would you like to remove some, if not all of the risk and volatility from your current investment portfolio, and no longer have to depend on the trend of stock market?
- Would you like to protect the gains in your corporate and municipal bond portfolios against an eventual rise in interest rates that would negatively affect the market value of your bonds?
- Would you prefer a guaranteed rate of return from an institution that's been around and accountable for over 150 years? A company that has delivered their promise even through the Great Depression, the 1920's stock market crash, 2 World Wars, and the recent financial crisis and bank failures of the 1980's and 1990's?
- Do you want to participate in a time tested process that will provide you with guaranteed cash flow to enable you to have a more predictable retirement without risks or assumptions?
- Do you want to maintain the same lifestyle once you have retired without disrupting your legacy for your family?

It you've answered "YES" to any of the questions above, let's talk about it. Please contact me to schedule a complimentary consultation. Money must reside somewhere. When viewed in light of all the alternatives, it is essential that we take time to make sure that our money resides where it benefits us most, now and in the future. Let's talk.

SGV Hikers Rescued

STAFF REPORTS

San Gabriel - Los Angeles Sheriff's Department Search and Rescue Teams were activated to look for eight missing UCLA students who had become lost and hypothermic in the snow. The students are members of the UCLA Hiking Club. Five members of the group were able to navigate their way out of the forest, while the remaining eight were lost.

The search area was near Throop Peak at an 8,200 foot elevation. The conditions were snowy and icy, with some drifts causing the rescuers to plunge high-deep into the snow. Rescue teams from San Di-mas, Crescenta Valley, and the Palmdale Sheriff's Stations responded to the 911 call. The hikers were located at 12:30 a.m. on Sun., Feb. 8, by the Montrose Search and Rescue Team from the Crescenta Valley Station.

It took rescuers six hours to hike the students out of the area due to the treacherous conditions. To prevent the students from falling, the rescue team placed harnesses and ropes on them to safely lower them down icy slopes.

The students were elated to see the rescue team, some being mildly hypothermic. None of the students required medical attention, and they were taken back to their cars – safe and sound.

Walnut Council Recap

on the family owned business and how Angel's work ethic should stand as an inspiration for the residents of Walnut.

"This is a role model we need to look up to," Ching said. "Many people like his food, (Angel) is good to kids; he gives a lot of opportunities for kids to work in his shop...that's why he is chosen (as the Business of the Quarter)."

Ching also commented that he loved the restaurant's ceviche and that he wished the restaurant luck as it continues to do business.

Following the award ceremony, the Council approved the only item on its public hearings schedule, which was Ordinance No. 15-02 to establish Article XXIV for historical preservation of the Walnut Municipal Code.

After that, the Council approved all the items on its consent calendar, including a resolution of certain claims and demands in the amount of $869,983.61; a joint resolution approving and accepting a negotiated exchange of property tax revenue resulting from annexation of the territory to the Walnut Valley Water District; a resolution regarding the payment of salaries, sick leave, vacations, leave of absences and other regulations by revising authorized positions/salary Schedule A; and an additional appropriation request for Leibold, McClendon & Mann to provide special legal services in connection with the proposed disposition of Lot 269 in Three Oaks.

Finally, the Council moved onto the successor agency consent calendar, approving both items for the adoption of Resolution No.15-02, approving the ROPS for July through December 2015; and adoption of Resolution No.15-13, approving the administrative budget for July through December 2015.

After Council announcements, the members then adjourned into closed session to discuss negotiations of real property pursuant to Government Code 54956.8.

The next City Council meeting will take place on Feb. 25, at 7 p.m., in the Council chambers at 21201 La Puente Road.

Arrest In OC Transgender Homicide

embolism syndrome related to a silicone injection to the buttocks for cosmetic reasons.

Homicide Detectives initiated a death investigation which revealed that the victim – Felipe De La Riva (who also went by the name of Katya) - went to a "silicone party" in the area sometime in late Dec. 2014. On Jan. 1, De La Riva admitted herself into Kaiser Hospital due to a respiratory problem. Silicone embolism syndrome symptoms include fever, chest pain, coughing up blood and altered consciousness.

On Jan. 21, at 7:06 p.m., De La Riva died of an embolism related to the silicone injection. Because the injection was received in a non-medical facility – possibly a hotel room - Kaiser contacted the coroner's office.

On Thurs., Feb. 5, Santa Ana Police Homicide Detectives arrested Liborio De La Luz Ramos, 44, of Santa Ana, in connection with the death of De La Riva. Ramos faces one felony count of voluntary manslaughter and two felony counts of the unauthorized practice of medicine, and is being held on $500,000 bail. Detectives believe there may be additional victims who received injections from the suspect.

Anyone with information regarding this case is urged to contact Santa Ana Police Detectives at (714) 245-8390.

Run Forrest Run

By PASTOR MARK HOPPER

I don't remember the words to a lot of songs. The tunes may be familiar, but I don't remember all of the lyrics. But, I do tend to remember words and phrases from movies. Many of these memorable phrases are often quoted in other movies in the entertainment world.

For example, in one of the Indiana Jones movies when someone asked Indy what he was going to do next, he replied, "I don't know. I'm making it up as I go." And, when he was being questioned by some FBI agents about what the Ark of the Covenant was, Indy asked them, "Didn't any of you ever go to Sunday School?"

In the movie, Apollo Thirteen, when the spacecraft is damaged by an explosion, one of the astronauts speaks the famous words, "Houston, we have a problem." In the movie, Forrest Gump, you hear the famous phrase repeated several times, "Run, Forrest, run!"

I know that millions of people watched the Super Bowl recently. It was an exciting football game as each team made some mistakes and each team made some amazing plays. But, in case you may be one of the few people in our country who did not watch the game, let me explain how it ended.

The Seattle Seahawks drove the football deep into the New England Patriot's end of the field. The Seahawks were trailing, but a touchdown would put them ahead and assure them of another Super Bowl title.

With the ball on the one-yard line and only 30 seconds on the clock, Seattle did the unthinkable. Instead of running the football into the end zone, they surprised everyone by throwing a short pass.

If the pass was caught, Seattle would likely score and win the game. But, the pass was intercepted by New England and Seattle lost the game. Everyone was stunned. Everyone thought Seattle would run the ball into the end zone and win the game.

Instead, Seattle lost and New England won. It was one of the most unexpected endings in Super Bowl history.

Later, as I reflected on the unexpected outcome, I remembered the famous phrase from the movie, Forrest Gump, "Run, Forrest, run!"

I don't know if the Seattle coach watches many old movies, but he might want to watch Forrest Gump again. If Seattle had only run the ball, they would probably be the Super Bowl champions. Instead, they elected to pass the ball, which was intercepted, and New England is the 2015 Super Bowl champion!

Someone may want to send a copy of the movie, Forrest Gump, to the Seattle coach and remind him that next time his team is on the goal line, they should, "Run, Forrest, run!"

Pastor Mark Hopper is from the Evangelical Free Church of Diamond Bar, 3255 South Diamond Bar Ave. Sunday services are 9 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. For more information, call (909) 594-7604 or visit www.efreedb.org.

Calling For Responsible Pet Owners

By NANCY STOOPS

It is on behalf of dogs everywhere that I write this article. Being the proud owner of Midnight - the black lab/black shepherd mix shown with me in my photograph - is truly a joy and honor. Midnight is almost 8-years old and very healthy. Midnight and I take lots of long walks in our neighborhood and he has many buddies along the way. Some of his buddies are very well cared for and live safe lives. Some of his buddies aren't so lucky and are let out to walk themselves.

I can't believe how many wonderful dogs I have seen without tags that are let out to walk themselves. I can't believe how many dogs end up hit by cars and die because they are illegally let out. Legally, dogs are supposed to be licensed, vaccinated and leashed when they are out off their property. They should be walked by humans that can help guide them on what is safe and what is not when they are outside of their house or yard.

A dog is a huge responsibility and an enormous joy. Caring for a dog properly involves feeding them healthy food, cleaning them, vet visits, walks, licensing them, cleaning up after them, and always providing clean drinking water and shelter...and lots of love, affection and attention.

It's not okay to have a dog - or any animal - that is neglected. There have been many new laws passed to help protect animals, and people lose their pets every day because of neglect.

So I ask you to think about all of this before you get an animal. I beg you to stop allowing your dogs to walk themselves. I ask you to understand how helpless they are and how much they count on us to care properly for them. Please take the time to be a responsible and loving pet owner!

Straight Talk With Danice

By DANICE AKIYOSHI, N.D.

Dear Dr. Akiyoshi:
I am in my early 20s. I have worked as a secretary for my uncle's company since I graduated high school. I have finally saved enough money for the down payment to buy a new car. When I was applying for the financing, I discovered that my uncle used my social security number and credit to buy himself a car. When I confronted him, he admitted that he didn't have enough available credit to buy his car. He said I would have no problem getting financing because he would co sign for me. He also asked me not to tell my dad (his brother) about what he did. Now I don't trust my uncle, but I don't want to lose my job. Please help me know what to do.

-Theresa
Dear Theresa:
I'm just going to come right out and say it. Your uncle is a criminal and a rotten relative. What he did is illegal and you could easily press charges against him. He has no right to "borrow" your social security number, along with your financial identity to buy himself a car. At your young age, I'm doubtful that you have the developmental skills to know how to deal with a person like this. He has no regard for your well-being and you should definitely tell your dad what has happened. I think you're going to need someone with experience to help you correct this situation. Start looking for a new job immediately. Do not rest until his fraudulent charges are cleared from your credit. This is so important for your future. Good Luck.

Suzanne Students Meet Local American Idol Contestant

By Kelli Gile

Walnut—A group of enthusiastic Suzanne Middle School students met up with singing sensation, Adanna Duru, at the Teen Center on Feb. 3. The 2014 Walnut High graduate is competing against 220 other contestants on Season 14 of “American Idol.”

Duru shared favorite memories from her years as a Suzanne student.

“I loved middle school!” she said reminiscing about favorite teachers and classes.

One standout season was playing an Umpa-Lumpa in the cast of “Willie Wonka” in the 7th Grade.

“I thought that was funny since I’m 5’ 8”!” Duru exclaimed.

The 18-year old Diamond Bar resident advanced to Hollywood Week after her successful audition in San Francisco. Duru adeptly belted out Lady Gaga’s “You and I” before the trio of judges. She recalled when Jennifer Lopez commented that she “had the total package.”

“I told myself ‘I need to remember this!’” Duru gushed.

The following day, Duru received a Tweet from Lady Gaga that said, “Congratulations, you killed it!”

The teen believes she has grown as a performer since appearing on “The Voice” as a sophomore.

“Since then I’ve learned so much. I have so much fun on stage!” said Duru, who shared her strategy for the singing competition after receiving famous “Idol” golden ticket to Hollywood.

“I’m so grateful and happy. For me, it’s about staying focused, being in the moment, and doing my very best.”

Duru was eager to answer questions and sing for the 40 tweens.

“How does it feel to be famous?” asked 6th Grader Eddie Banda.

“I feel the same, but sometimes I get recognized now,” Duru replied.

The young fans cheered when she offered up Ed Sheeran’s “Give Me Love.” After the meet and greet, Duru happily took pictures and signed autographs.

“It’s cool she went to my school,” said Aaron Rubio, 7th Grade. “She’s pursuing her dream as a singer. My dream is to be in the MLB.”

“It was great seeing her today,” said 6th Grader Sharon Suarez who watched the audition on YouTube.

“She’s beautiful and awesome,” added Elijah Christian, age 11.

“I want her to go to the top and make her own album,” said 7th Grader Jocelyn Cole.

“I’d go see her in concert!” Rubio exclaimed.

Duru gave the middle-schoolers some advice about reaching for their dreams.

“A lot of people will tell you that your dream is stupid. I’ve been told that so many times,” Duru explained. “Honestly, you’re capable of everything you believe you’re capable of if you really believe that you can do something and you have the discipline to know that when you fail it’s not the end. When you fail, you learn from your mistakes and keep changing and growing. It’s all about believing in yourself!”

Why does the teen want to be the next American Idol?

“Because there’s nothing else on Earth that I want to do besides making music; I feel like it’s my calling, it’s what I’m best at,” Duru said.

PUSD Discusses Shift In Elections

By Juliette Funes

Pomona – The Pomona Unified School District Board of Education discussed a potential shift from at-large to trustee-area elections during a special meeting on Jan. 28.

In recent years, many school districts have moved to trustee-area elections in response to federal, state and voter rights laws designed to ensure under-represented groups have equal opportunities and access to voting and representation.

The meeting provided board members with an overview of the voting history in Pomona Unified and served as a forum for community members to provide feedback on the topic. Community-wide forums on the potential shift will follow to ensure all voices are heard.

“When you view Pomona Unified’s election history, our community has consistently selected board members that reflect the makeup, values and priorities of our community,” said PUSD Superintendent Richard Martinez. “However, we are presenting our board members with this information for consideration as we evaluate the legal trends and possible ramifications in sustaining at-large elections.”

With at-large elections, registered voters are able to vote for any board member candidate on the ballot regardless of where in the PUSD District boundaries they reside. Trustee-area voting requires voters to cast a ballot for only the board member residing in their voter district, which is typically based on geography.

PUSD’s voting track record is strong, but in some districts groups are using the courts to raise issues, leaving school districts vulnerable to lawsuits, litigation fees and special elections, according to District Legal Counsel, Kasey Haws.

“Litigation regarding the California Voting Rights Act is sweeping municipalities and school districts across the state,” Haws stated.

“To avoid this costly process, stay ahead of any potential court action and preserve the District’s ability to determine the outcome, we are taking the prudent step to discuss what viable options are available.”

At-large voting requires every board member to campaign to and be responsive to all constituents in the school district, with an opportunity to run for a board seat every two years. Board members consider the district as a whole.

In trustee-area elections, it is less expensive to run for office, campaigning is less intensive because candidates have a smaller voter base, and board members typically focus more specifically on the needs of schools and neighborhoods in their specific district. Candidates would be eligible to run once every four years.

Trustee-area elections provide for more diversity on a board. However, the PUSD community has traditionally voted in a diverse board of representatives.

The District has two options.

Option 1: The District can oppose trustee areas through a resolution, which would result in holding a series of public hearings and presenting supporting evidence against the move to a county committee. The committee would have the option of setting the matter for a public vote, hiring its own demographer to draw boundaries and requiring a special election in early 2016.

Option 2: Board members could pass a resolution agreeing to move to trustee-area voting and seek a waiver of an election from the California Department of Education. The District would then hire a demographer to draw several possible trustee maps for public discussion, hold multiple hearings, vote for a final map and present the plan to the committee for final approval. A likely result is that two areas would be up for vote in 2015 and three in 2017.

“At this point, we are just discussing this issue and weighing our options,” said Board President Andrew Wong. “Our goal was to hear what the public had to say on this issue and take a hard look at what will be in the best interests of Pomona Unified and our community.”

The board was expected to come to a decision during the board meeting on Tues., Feb. 11.

To Win... Make It Fun!

By Mike Green

As a youth coach, you may feel like your goal is to have a winning season. The fact is a winning season is a by-product of a good process, based upon having fun.

The key feature in a winning season for a youth coach is that your players MUST enjoy themselves. If the coach makes the experience a positive one, the players will want to put the extra effort into the process.

I’m not saying all you do is mess around and not provide discipline, structure or accountability to your team. Those attributes are present within every winning team. Children need those responsibilities to learn and grow, and if you can create an enjoyable environment they will work very hard without even knowing it.

The best coaches are the ones who create a passion for the sport they are coaching, regardless of the win-loss record. The only way to do this is to respect and treat every player as a valuable member of the team while making the experience a fun and positive one. When your players say, “Practice is over already?” you’ll know you’ve done a great job as a coach.

Mike Green is a coach for The Sports Family Club, a website dedicated to enriching the lives of children through sports and activities.

Marshall Celebrates 60th Anniversary

By Juliette Funes

Pomona – Marshall Middle School is kicking off its 60th anniversary celebration in style, thanks in large part to Walmart, which awarded the Pomona Unified school $1,500 in school grants. The funds will be used to help refurbish Marshall’s cafeteria and buy new e-readers for the school library.

“It is wonderful to see such leadership and collaboration between our schools and local business partners to improve the learning environments of our students,” said Pomona Unified Board President Andrew Wong. “We believe that strong bonds and engagement between students, parents, educators and local businesses make us a stronger, more accountable school district.”

Named after the nation’s longest-serving Supreme Court Chief Justice, John Marshall, the school opened its doors in 1955 as a Grade 7 to 9 junior high. Now a 6th through 8th Grade school, Marshall (located at 1921 Arroyo Ave.) will celebrate its longevity and success during a ceremony tentatively scheduled for April.

Marshall Middle School Principal, Juan Ortiz, is presented with a $1,000 school grant from the Pomona Walmart, which provided an additional $500 in other school grants to the school for its 60th anniversary celebration.

“As part of our 60th anniversary, we plan to update and upgrade some items on campus so that over the next six decades, Marshall students can continue to feel a sense of pride in their school,” Principal Juan Ortiz said. “On behalf of Marshall Middle School, I want to thank our brand new Walmart store in Pomona for its generosity and helping us build on our sense of community.”

The celebration will focus on the complete refurbishing of the school cafeteria and its centerpiece – a new mural depicting three different color representations of the school mascot, the Marshall Mustang.

“This mural has welcomed students into our cafeteria for the last 30 years and we are ready to create a modern mural that our children can enjoy,” Ortiz said.

The Walmart grants will partially fund the new mural, as well as assist in the purchase of three e-readers for the school library to better help students in the transition to new digital learning technologies.

“It is our continuing mission to provide our students with the most modern learning facilities available,” PUSD Superintendent Richard Martinez said. “We are grateful to Walmart for its commitment to our schools. Every child deserves an opportunity to excel.”
