Silverlakes: Back In Action

Norco - Think back to a year ago, when the Silverlakes Equestrian Center hit another barricade on a long and bumpy road. Since the project began construction in 2007, it seems like one thing after another has prevented the 122-acre recreational facility from being completed. The story – from financing issues to mistrust and lawsuits – has had a lot of drama.

On Thurs., Mar. 5, Eastvale's Mayor Ike Bootsma announced that the project was a go. "Funding is secured; bonds have been sold; and construction is going to start next week," he said. "Tournaments are scheduled to begin

Old Schleisman Road Closure

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale - On Nov., 13, 2013, the Eastvale City Council adopted Resolution No. 13-38 to vacate a portion of Schleisman Road, east of Scholar Way, as a public street. This vacation is a result of the realignment of Schleisman Road between Scholar Way and Hamner Avenue through a new roadway constructed by the D. R. Horton development, also known as "A" Street. The resolution was recorded on Feb., 24, 2014. The project was previously approved by the County of Riverside in 2007, prior to the City of Eastvale's incorporation.

The new roadway is nearing completion, and the intersection of Schleisman and Scholar was closed to all traffic beginning on Mar. 27. This change allowed for the permanent closure of Schleisman Road east of Scholar Way, and the transfer of east/west traffic onto the new Schleisman Road beginning on March 29.

Major construction will continue for several weeks to allow for paving, striping, and signage installation. During this time, an interim detour and traffic control plan will be implemented to direct vehicular as well as pedestrian traffic.

D. R. Horton subdivision map, Tract No. 34014, includes the renaming of "old/existing" Schleisman Road as Riverboat Drive, to match the current street name east of Wells Spring Street. Consequently, the new roadway referred to as "A" Street that terminates at Hamner Avenue will be renamed Schleisman Road.

The City of Eastvale has been working diligently with the developer, D.R. Horton, and the Corona-Norco Unified School District (CNUSD) to prepare and plan for the traffic impacts during construction. A Traffic Engineer has been retained to prepare traffic control plans for various phases of construction. Property owners within the surrounding neighborhoods were informed in early March when over 2,000 notices were mailed to advise residents of the name changes. To date, no objection has been received at City Hall.

Once the project is completed, the end result will be a significant improvement to the traffic and circulation in the area of Schleisman Road and Scholar Way. At completion of the project, benefits will include:

1. Fully improved and widened intersections, which will reduce existing congestion at Schleisman Road and Scholar Way
2. Sidewalks on the east side of Scholar Way, which will enhance pedestrian safety by improving crosswalks and pedestrian paths.

3. Scholar Way will have two lanes in each direction between Schleisman Road and Citrus Street.

Construction is unavoidable, but the City of Eastvale, D.R. Horton and CNUSD have planned to make the most of any downtime during construction such as holidays, weekends and after-peak hours. Please expect delays when driving through the project area. Residents are encouraged to allow extra time for any activities in the immediate area, or use an alternate route.

Questions regarding this project should be directed to Ruben Castaneda, City of Eastvale Public Works Department, at (951) 703-4472.

INTERIM CITY MANAGER

Eastvale - The City of Eastvale is fast approaching its 5th birthday, and the community has much to be proud of!

Doors will open at 6 p.m., and once again, citizens will enjoy a free event with performances by ERHS's Festival Winds, the Presentation of Colors by Boy Scout Troop 2012, and the National Anthem sung by ERHS student, Brianna Velasquez. A complimentary dessert and coffee bar will immediately follow the State of the City Address.

DUI Checkpoint Results

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale - The Eastvale Police Department conducted a DUI/Driver License checkpoint on Fri., Mar. 13, at Limonite and Hamner avenues, between the hours of 7:00 p.m. and 3:00 a.m. Checkpoints are placed in locations that have the greatest opportunity for achieving drunk and drugged driving deterrence and provide the greatest safety for officers and the public.

DUI/Driver's License checkpoints have been shown to lower DUI deaths and injuries. A major component of these checkpoints are the deterrent effects they have on those who might drive alcohol or drug impaired, bringing about more awareness and encouraging everyone to use sober designated drivers.

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), checkpoints have provided the most effective documented results of any of the DUI enforcement strategies, while also yielding a considerable cost savings of $6 for every $1 spent. 90 percent of California drivers approve of checkpoints.

Operation Results:

- 1,213 vehicles passed through the checkpoint
- 3 DUI arrests
- 5 field sobriety tests for DUI of alcohol/drugs
- 5 Citations were issued for unlicensed drivers
- 1 Citation was issued for suspended driver license
- 5 Citations for miscellaneous vehicle code violations
- 4 Vehicles towed

Drunk driving is a major cause of fatal and injury collisions each year. We are seeking your assistance in saving lives. If you are on the roadways and you observe a possible drunk driver, call 911 immediately. Officers will be dispatched to the location and make every effort to prevent the impaired driver from continuing to pose a threat.

The Eastvale Police Department wishes to remind you that if you choose to drink alcoholic beverages, please designate a sober driver before getting into a vehicle. Remember, "Drunk Driving, Over the Limit, Under Arrest!"

Funding for this checkpoint was provided to the Eastvale Police Department by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Bicycle Helmet Enforcement

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale – On Tues., Mar. 24, the Eastvale Police Department stepped up their bicycle safety enforcement with a focus on minors riding bicycles, scooters and skateboards without wearing safety helmets. Parents are reminded that Vehicle Code Section 21212(a) states that every person under the age of 18 must wear an approved safety helmet when riding these modes of transportation.

The results of this enforcement included 66 citations issued to juveniles in violation of the safety code.

Bicycle fatalities are rising in California as more people use bicycling for commuting, exercise and recreation. Locally, the Eastvale Police Department has investigated 1 fatality and 30 injury collisions involving bike riders during the past year. In 2012, California witnessed 124 bicyclist deaths, while nationally 726 riders were killed.

Nationally, fatal bike crash patterns have changed markedly. The percentage involving adults age 20 and older increased from 21 percent in 1975 to 84 percent in 2012. The percentage involving males increased from 82 percent to 88 percent during this period; and adult males comprised 74 percent of all bicyclist deaths in 2012. The percentage of deaths occurring in urban areas climbed from 50 percent in 1975 to 69 percent in 2012.

The following safety tips can save lives and stop this tragedy witnessed far too often in Eastvale. Drivers:

- "Share the road" with bicyclists.

- Be courteous; California law now mandates at least three feet of clearance when passing bike riders.
- Look for cyclists before opening a car door or pulling out from a parking space.
- Yield to cyclists at intersections and as directed by signs and signals.
- Be especially watchful for riders when making turns, either left or right.

Bicyclists:

- Wear properly fitted bicycle helmets every time you ride. If under 18 years of age, it's the law.
- A helmet is the single most effective way to prevent head injury resulting from a bicycle crash.
- Riders are considered vehicle operators; you are required to obey the same rules of the road as other vehicle operators, including obeying traffic signs, signals, and lane markings.

- When cycling in the street, cyclists must ride in the same direction as traffic.
- Bicyclists should increase their visibility to drivers by wearing fluorescent or brightly colored clothing during the day, and at dawn and dusk.
- To be noticed when riding at night, the law requires a front light and a red reflector to the rear.
- For additional safety, use a flashing rear light, and use retro-reflective tape or markings on equipment or clothing.

Funding for this operation is provided to the Eastvale Police Department by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Active School Shooters Are Not "Campus Visitors"

By WARREN PULLEY
CEO, RYPUL THREAT ASSESSMENTS

Securing school campuses around the country has become a major point of contention, with each side of the debate entrenched in the fact that they believe their ideas are the best and most reasonable. But the first thing school systems need to do is to stop designing protection plans as if active shooters are merely visitors to our campuses, when, in fact, they are killers at large.

Both sides do have some degree of support in their respective circles of influence, and in some cases, what each side is proposing just may work on a small, district-sized scale. For instance, I often hear gun rights advocates supporting the idea of arming teachers as one of the most effective means of protection for our children while at school. While this approach may have some effect on the active shooter, that shooter would have to encounter the armed teacher who is adequately trained to square off and stand in the line of fire with an armed intruder, and fire well-placed, consistent shots under pressure. If all of those factors can be achieved then there is room for a measure of success.

However, in my professional opinion as a former police officer and current worldwide protective specialist, training a teacher to that level of proficiency may require more instruction than most teachers or school systems are willing to dedicate. On the other hand, I do support the deployment of more armed school resource officers and directed police patrols as a way to help in the deterrence of armed violence. But in most cases, there are just not enough police professionals available to make a noticeable difference in the response times needed to make this approach effective as anything other than highly visible window dressing.

Then we come to the other side of the debate that insists on increased video surveillance, key card scanners, mental health legislation, limited entry and exit ways, metal detectors, student badges, etc. Now, all of these things can make a difference - if used correctly all of the time, maintained in proper working order, are fully funded, and are used in conjunction with armed security staff. We must remember that active shooters or armed intruders do not follow the standard protocol of using designated entry ways, nor do they wear badges that can be scanned, or stand in line to be processed into the school campus, or even really care about the presence of school video surveillance systems. Active shooters arrive on our campuses with one single-minded purpose: to inflict as many casualties as possible in the shortest amount of time before the arrival of highly trained, paid and competent security professionals.

And while the argument continues to rage about who is right or wrong, or best suited to draft policies that mitigate the loss of life and property damage on our school campuses, the active shooter is only doing one thing: planning their next attack regardless of school policy, procedure or practice.

The active shooter will engage our children while they stand outside in perfect lines to be processed into our wholly unsecure campuses. The active shooter will do the evil deed of killing our children while being watched by the overpriced, high-definition camera systems that our school systems have purchased to watch and record the murder of our children. And afterward, parents, educators and security professionals will launch into the debate about what to do.

I recently learned that a school system in this great nation came to the conclusion that the best way to deter a school shooter is to simply "move the doors on each of its campuses to a new location within the building." I am supposing that this idea will somehow confuse the shooter and cause them to just forego their intent? I shook my head in disbelief while reading the article, and wondered just how idiotic we as a society have become. And don't get me started on one Alabama school district's idea of simply having its children "throw canned goods at its armed intruders," what poppycock.

The answer to our questions is extremely simple. Let's no longer debate the issue about the so-called "militarized look of our campuses," as we already have that in place in nearly every school in the country with our high wire fences, armed security staffs, metal detector entry points, roving armed patrols, locked metal gates, key carded entryways and high frequency radios. Let's simply utilize the current technology in place today. Passive ballistic protection products are on the market which are already offered to police officers, food service workers, airline pilots and bank employees. This low visibility and high protection option has become the gold standard for protecting against gun violence around the world. Passive ballistic protection works. Debate over.

Helpful Tax-Saving Strategies

By GINNY GRIMSLEY

Millions of Americans face a challenge in meeting their budgets every month – not just financially, but also in their time budgets, says investment advisor, Reid Abedeen.

“Knowledge is power and time is often money, but what if you don’t have the time to empower yourself with knowledge? For many households, that often means losing out on thousands of dollars through tax deductions,” says Abedeen, a partner at Safeguard Investment Advisory Group, LLC (www.safeguardinvestment.com).

“As a family man myself, I understand what it means to work hard to provide the best possible for my wife and children. Had I not worked in the financial sector for almost two decades, I might not have understood how to best troubleshoot my tax return, I sympathize.”

Abedeen offers the following strategies that may be relevant for your family this tax season.

- Take tax deductions for capital loss. If your capital losses exceed your capital gains, the excess can be deducted on your tax return and used to reduce other income, such as wages, up to an annual limit of $3,000, or $1,500 if you are married filing separately. However, you may deduct capital losses only on investment property, not on property held for personal use.

- Fund your retirement to the max. You can contribute up to $5,500 to an IRA in tax-year 2014, or $6,500 if you are age 50 or older. Workers in the 25 percent tax bracket who contributed $5,500 to an IRA would save $1,375 on their 2014 tax bills. You’ll want to check your eligibility and understand the deadline for the 2014 deduction. If you make a deposit between Jan. 1 and Apr. 15, you need to tell the financial institution which year the contribution is for.

- Advisory fees are tax-deductible. Don’t feel like spending money to save and make money? There’s a workaround. Before closing the door on the possibility, inquire with a financial expert. Most are happy to give a free initial consultation, and you don’t have to be a millionaire to make it worth your while.

- Gift assets to children. You don’t even have to file a gift tax return on an asset that’s valued less than $12,000, which is not taxable. If the fair market value of the gifted asset is more than $12,000 per person per year, but less than $1 million, there is the requirement of filing a gift tax return, but you won’t be taxed. The gift still is not income taxable to the recipient.

- Deduct a home-based office when used for your employer. If space in your home is used exclusively and regularly for a trade, you can count that as a deductible. Calculate the square footage of your home office and divide the area of your house. If the percentage is 14 percent, for example, that represents the percentage of your total home expenses that can be allocated toward the home office deduction. For further questions, consult a professional.

“You’ll want to be very vigilant regarding these details of these deductions,” Abedeen says. “For any questions, I seriously recommend consulting a professional.”

in September.”

As construction began once again on the barren field the week of March 9, interest has been renewed on the sports park that will ultimately contain an equestrian center capable of stabling and hosting world-class (possibly Olympic) events, 25 soccer fields, a 5,000-seat indoor stadium, an outdoor arena and event center, picnic areas, and more. This beautiful sports mega-center could also bring in over $35 million to the City of Norco, and attract over a half million visitors...a boon for Norco, and Eastvale as well.

Steve King, Planning Director for the City of Norco, said that the project has definitely been approved. “Synthetic and natural grass fields will be the first phase, along with some sand equine arenas,” he said.

The sports fields will be finished for use this year, and then other phases will commence construction thereafter.

Balboa Management Group, which has been at the helm (albeit on and off again) of construction for more than seven years, has secured $20 million in financing, according to the City of Eastvale.

Despite the ups and downs of Silverlakes, it’s not difficult to become re-enamored with anticipation over what is to come. Citizens throughout Eastvale and Norco – and far beyond – will enjoy watching the construction process and look forward to enjoying the first fruits of the park come September.

As Eastvale’s Interim City Manager, Michele Nissen puts it, “Norco’s Silverlakes project has been a long-time coming, and we are happy to see the project start moving forward again. Once this project is complete – assuming it is built out as planned – the regional benefits will be tremendous. Invariably, there will be temporary construction inconveniences to Norco and Eastvale citizens, which go hand in hand with a project of this scope and magnitude. This is a very exciting development that is poised to positively impact the trajectory of both cities.”

Well said. This is definitely a project, that when completed, will place our communities in a more prominent place on the map.

CPD Officer and Good Samaritans rescue driver from burning car

STAFF REPORTS

Corona – On Thurs., Mar. 5 at about 11:53 p.m., the Corona Police Department dispatched an Officer to the 1100 block of E. Foothill Parkway regarding a vehicle fire. Upon arrival, Officer Michael Neff observed a white Ford Escape crashed into a tree with its engine compartment fully engulfed in flames. Two citizens were already on scene trying to render assistance to the trapped driver. Officer Neff obtained a fire extinguisher from the trunk of his patrol vehicle and attempted to extinguish the fire. Neff, citizen Kenneth Lee, and an unidentified person had just enough time to rescue the driver from the burning vehicle. The Corona Fire Department arrived on scene and extinguished the fire. The driver was later identified as Nicole Edson, 35, of Corona. She was transported to Riverside Community Hospital with major injuries related to the traffic collision. Edson was the sole occupant of the vehicle, and was later arrested for suspicion of driving under the influence of alcohol. Officer Neff, Kenneth Lee, and the unidentified citizen were not injured during the incident and are being commended for their actions. The Corona Police Department is seeking information that will help identify the unknown person who assisted with the rescue. Please call Sergeant Paul Mercado at (951) 736-2280.

Sexual Assault Arrest

It has been reported to the Corona Police Department that Shaffer may have been conducting youth Bible studies in his home in Corona, and that he frequents local skateboard parks. Parents are encouraged to talk with their children about any contact they may have had with Shaffer, and to call the Corona Police Department if they feel that their children may be a victim of abuse. Phone Call Scam Alert

STAFF REPORTS

Riverside – It seems as if fraudulent phone calls are on the rise, and uninformed victims may find themselves short on funds and long on disappointment. According to the Riverside County Sheriff's Department, criminals are impersonating law enforcement officials, utility company personnel, and even county court employees, making random calls and threats in an attempt to extort money.

IMAGE COURTESY: WWW.BBB.ORG

In one scheme, a victim is told that they have an outstanding warrant for failing to appear for jury duty. In another scheme, the caller threatens to shut off utilities for past due payment or the installation of a new meter. The caller would demand payment via credit card or Green Dot card. The suspect would typically remain on the phone with the victim while the money is transferred.

While these suspects are very convincing, the Riverside County Sheriff's Department and the Riverside Superior Court District make it very clear that they will never contact the public in such a way.

If you find yourself a victim of one of these calls, never, ever, provide any type of payment or personal information. Tell the caller that you are going to contact the company they "represent" directly to resolve the situation. If possible, write down any incoming numbers from your Caller ID (although many of today's technologies can hide or scramble phone numbers) and as much information as possible. Hang up and contact your local law enforcement.

To learn more information on phone scams please visit the Federal Trade Commission at www.consumer.ftc.gov.

to share his passion for fitness with the community. "First, surround yourself with great people who are passionate about the goal. Next, only run teams that you're willing to be personally invested in. The rest mostly takes care of itself." What Randall is expounding on is success. Orangetheory's group training approach is based on science, using a heart rate monitor to inspire performances. Because they focus specifically on getting each student into their "Orange Zone," a spike in metabolism occurs that lasts 24 to 36 hours after the session is completed. This "after-burn" has given Orangetheory quite the reputation for burning calories. Randall, who has 26 years of experience in the healthcare and fitness industries, didn't always make his own health a priority. As a bureaucrat for one of the largest companies in the country, he was good at his job, but he wasn't taking care of himself, or his family, the way he wanted to. That all changed for the better with Orangetheory. "Not everyone has the option of changing careers mid-life," says Randall. "This is my way of helping people take a little bit better care of themselves, whatever their schedule is. If they only have a few hours a week to invest in fitness, it really has to count." Randall says it's not his own expertise that is the most relevant to Orangetheory. He has surrounded himself with a team of trainers and managers that have competed in the highest levels of collegiate sports, and have nutrition, fitness and medical certificates. And even though there are three professional athletes on staff, all personal trainers are required to have nationally recognized certification, making not only fitness, but safety and well-being, their priorities. Orangetheory is also invested in the community. They support the American Cancer Society and are sponsoring the upcoming Relay for Life Walk on Apr. 18. Some of the trainers and staff are even participating in JCSD's Biggest Loser event, to be held Apr. 20 to June 22. While they are putting the finishing touches on the construction of their new fitness studio, they have a booth set up next to the storefront several days a week. Stop by and say hello, learn more about the Orange Zone buzz, and ask about their special pre-opening membership rates. Coach Barile Recognized At UNITY Awards

Eastvale - On Feb. 26, the 17th Annual UNITY (United Neighbors Involving Today's Youth) Awards hosted a luncheon to recognize community members who make a difference. One of those individuals honored, was Tony Barile, Head Football Coach for Eleanor Roosevelt High School. Barile was recognized for his dedication to community involvement, and for being a positive influence and mentor to the youth of Eastvale.

Barile has worked with Michele Derus, Principal at Eastvale Elementary, to create a mentor program to bring their students together. Once a week, the coach and 20 of his players visit the elementary school to volunteer in a variety of capacities, including tutoring students, leading fitness tests, and helping teachers in the classrooms. This spring, Barile is planning to host a "Field Day" for Eastvale Elementary, which he hopes will one day incorporate all of the elementary schools in Eastvale.

For the second year in a row, Barile hosted a coed football tournament for all of the elementary schools in the Eastvale community. His players volunteered as the referees and did a great job encouraging and teaching the students to show good sportsmanship and play hard.

Barile is also heavily involved with Vantage Point Church's community events. He has partnered with the church to start a "Breast Cancer Awareness" football game each October, dedicated to raising funds and awareness for this important cause. Survivors and fighters of cancer are invited to come and be special VIP guests. He has also partnered with another Roosevelt community group, AVID, to support students in the community with Epilepsy, raising a significant contribution and awareness for the Epilepsy Foundation. Barile's players also help out with the "Christmas Gift Mart," that benefits parents who are low-income and need assistance for the holidays.

Barile works diligently to instill character, leadership skills, and academic commitment in his students, and partners with other leaders in the community to provide events like annual youth football and cheer community nights and camps, coaching clinics, tutoring sessions, and even homework centers during practice. He also serves on the executive board for two prestigious football organizations, Southern California Interscholastic Football Federation (SCIFCA) and the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame (Riverside County Chapter). He is also on the California Interscholastic Federation (CIF) advisory committee.

What Coach Barile has already put in place in just the beginning of his vision for impacting the lives of our youth. He is the epitome of UNITY in the community of Eastvale.

District of California. According to a press release, "Mrs. Link was instrumental in the founding of the City of Eastvale, and continues to work on behalf of her Riverside County community."

"For the young city of Eastvale, Sharyn is one of the pillars of the community," said Linder. "Instead of out front, she is always in the background and willing to do anything she can to help. A true unsung hero, she is truly deserving of this recognition."

Link is married to Eastvale's current Mayor Pro Tem, Bill Link. They have both been active community members, most especially in the establishment and incorporation of Eastvale in 2010.

Link is currently the Executive Director of the Eastvale Community Foundation, and she has worked tirelessly with the City Council and local residents to meet the needs of the City. During her tenure, the Foundation's reserves have grown from $38, to more than $25,000. Through fundraisers and golf tournaments, these numbers continue to grow. Most recently, the Foundation has successfully taken over Eastvale's Military Banner Program.

According to Linder's office, the Woman of the Year ceremony is held annually and celebrates California's extraordinary women. The first ceremony was held in 1987 to commemorate Women's History Month.

Assemblyman Eric Linder (R-Corona) represents the 60th Assembly District in the California Legislature, which includes the communities of Corona, Eastvale, Jurupa Valley, Norco, and Riverside.

C.H.E.E.R.

BY TARA LANNING

Eastvale - Students at Eleanor Roosevelt High School recently experienced a life changing week. In March, the Best Buddies group helped to orchestrate the C.H.E.E.R. program for the school.

C.H.E.E.R. - an acronym for Consciousness Helps Encourage Equal Respect - invites students to adopt a disability and get a closer look on how people with disabilities are treated.

Each day, a group of students participated in different activities simulating what a disability might be like, including blindness, hearing impairment, or not being able to talk or walk. One of the highlights of the week was the school-wide signing of the "END THE R WORD" poster.

ERHS ended the week with very special guests, former NFL quarterback, Kurt Warner, and his wife, Brenda, founders of the C.H.E.E.R. program. Their son, Zach, has a disability, and is the inspiration behind the whole program. The Warner's became distraught when they noticed their son eating school lunch in the corner with other disabled students in a cafeteria full of laughing, young teenagers. Why wouldn't the other students invite Zach and the other amazing kids into their groups? They were worth an invitation to a party, so why did they never receive one?

The Warner's realized how important it was to bring awareness to this issue. A disability does not define a person. In fact, we all have challenges in life, but we all have talents as well. Kurt and Brenda shared their amazing story and encouraged ERHS students to look at life in a different way. They encouraged the students to walk a mile in someone else's shoes. They encouraged the students to make a difference in someone's life and to be the kind of leader who inspires others with their actions and encouragements.

The students learned how to live today to impact tomorrow. Yes, we are all different, but we are all also the same in the way that we need someone - we all need each other. No one should ever feel unimportant or unworthy. That is what C.H.E.E.R. is all about.

ERHS would like to thank Kurt and Brenda Warner for encouraging students to make a difference in the lives around them.

Haven Homes, Inc. foster family agency

care for them, usually surrounding a crisis. Currently, there are not enough foster families to take these children in, let alone mentor them, provide for them, or simply give them hope.

Statistics also show that if nothing were to change from the way it is now, by the year 2020, more than 10.5 million children will spend some time in foster care; more than 300,000 children will age out of the foster care system, some in poor health, some will find themselves homeless, and many will be unprepared for further education or the workforce; and 22,500 children will die of abuse or neglect, most before their 5th birthday.

While these are frightening statistics, there are solutions out there. For Lloyd Held, Ph.D., CEO and Founder of the foster family agency, Haven Homes, Inc., along with his wife, Haydee, Operations Manager and co-Founder, seeing to the welfare of children is a way of life.

"We care for the children and provide constant support for the Foster Parents," say Haydee, a nurse, whose expertise is in child care. "If the parents feel supported, the minors in the home feel safe and happy, and the placement will be successful."

Haven Homes, Inc. is a Christian-based, foster agency that recruits potential parents who will become qualified candidates. They train them with stringent guidelines, and place children in their homes. They also assign a Social Worker to manage their case, providing 24/7 support and weekly (or more, as needed) visits. The ultimate goal is not only to facilitate success, but place the children in the best environment possible.

Lloyd, who has been a Social Worker for over 31 years and holds a Ph.D. in Marriage and Family Counseling, founded Haven Homes on the premise that families are the cornerstone of society. Compassion is what drives the business, and he believes that providing these foster children with a consistent family life will help them develop the life skills that will allow them to function as valuable members of the community later in life.

Becoming a Foster Parent is not just a public service, it's a privilege. As a Foster Parent, you can help to significantly change a life for the better - and break an unhappy cycle - causing a positive ripple effect for generations to come.

Haydee says, "As Christians, it is our duty to be a good example to children; this is a mission field that has not been explored enough."

Haven Homes is helping to provide that mission field.

"When children get the right tools and are taught how to use them, they will overcome obstacles in their paths. As parents and foster parents, we have to plant those seeds. The rest is up to the Lord," Haydee continues.

The Held's work is carried out with the philosophy of believing in what you do, and pursuing it until your reach your goal.

If you believe you would be a good candidate, and would like to make a positive difference in the life of a child - or even a medically-fragile child or sibling group that may not otherwise have a chance - contact Haven Homes, Inc.

7th Annual Easter Egg Hunt

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale - A popular spring-time event and community tradition will soon be returning!

For the seventh consecutive year, VantagePoint Church will host its annual Easter Egg Hunt on Sat., Apr. 4, at the Eleanor Roosevelt High School Football Stadium.

"This fun-filled event has always drawn a large crowd and every year the attendance increases," said Monique Whritenour, the church's Director of Community Outreach. "Traditionally, we have held the Easter Egg Hunt at Mid Hill Golf Center. However, because of its popularity, we have decided to move it to the new location on the Roosevelt High School campus."

This year's celebration will begin at 10 a.m. and conclude at 1 p.m. In addition to Easter egg hunts for all ages taking place throughout the day, the festivities will also include a maze, inflatable obstacle course, games with prizes, petting zoo, and pictures with the Easter bunny. Free raffles will be held and guests will have the opportunity to win one of 50 Easter baskets.

Admission is free. Food, however, will be available for purchase and unique items will be sold at the Spring Craft Fair.

While the entire community is invited to attend, Whritenour believes that families with children ages 12 and under will find it especially enjoyable.

"The 7th Annual Vantage-Point Church Easter Egg Hunt will provide a wonderful opportunity for Eastvale families to get to know their neighbors, while providing their children with a positive and fun experi-

Reflections On A 16-Year Old

By JENNIFER JESTER-MADRIGAL

This month, my oldest child, Isaiah, turns 16; which is amazing since I am only 29.

This means that he will soon be driving, and that my hold on him is slipping a little further away each day. Soon he will throw his bags in the car and take himself to practice and bring himself home. He'll get a job and go to work and become more responsible and "man-like."

Every day he gets closer to becoming a grown man, and further from my baby who used to dress up in his Buzz Light-year costume and zoom around the house. The baby face is gone, replaced with fuzz, and often I am startled by the deep voice that comes out when he talks. He's taller than me, by a lot, and I have to stand on my toes to kiss his cheek. He still loves his momma; he still kisses and hugs me goodbye. And he has grown into such a responsible and overall good kid, but how is it possible he is already 16?

Isaiah came screaming into this world as we watched the tragedy of the Columbine High School Shooting unfold on TV. He was born on the day of those shootings, April 20, 1999; a horrific day where two teens gunned down their peers, and the world was forever changed. Parents lost their children and I met mine for the first time. I never forgot that, and I have always known he was a gift.

Once I brought my first child into the world and became a momma, my personal world began to rotate around him. From the instant I knew I was going to be a mom, my children have always come first. My sons are the center of my universe, but Isaiah will always be the one who made me a momma first. As a young mom of just 19, I was terrified, but also confident that he and I would go on some crazy adventures together, and we have. He has been my baby, my little boy, my little man, and my oldest son who I lean on to help me with his younger brothers. He watches over them, torments them and leads them. Isaiah has an especially amazing bond with his littlest brother, Nicholas, who is handicapped.

We walked the beach last weekend, and I watched Isaiah throw his brother on his back so that he could take him to climb the rocks and see the tide pools. He helped him over the rocks, pointed out the shells, signed "water" to him, and held his hand. I watched him hug his little bro, and kiss his cheeks like I always do. As parents, these are the moments we remember; these are the moments that remind us we are doing okay.

It has been a rough year, but Isaiah is getting through it and he's growing as a person. Life is never how you expect it to be or how you plan it to be, it's how God wants it to be. My kids illustrate this to me on a daily basis and I have almost made peace with that. I'm excited to see where his future leads, but nervous to let him fly on his own. Video game talks have been replaced with talks about college and the future, and I know these childhood days are winding to a close.

But, I choose to embrace this season. To really breathe it in and enjoy these moments because soon they will be just memories – and, of course, opportunities to teasingly blackmail him when his future wife comes along.

THE SPORTS FAMILY CLUB

Three Keys To Hitting

By MIKE GREEN

It's been said that hitting a baseball is one of the hardest things to do in sports. You're trying to hit a round ball with a round bat, and the ball is moving in various directions. But, with enough practice and these three keys, you can make hitting easier and be more successful.

#1 – Relax. You must be relaxed while at the plate. If you are tense and concerned with the pressure of getting a hit, it will be difficult. Besides, a relaxed muscle will fire quicker than a tense muscle, and a relaxed mind is a clear mind. See the ball, and hit it!

#2 – Balance. Being balanced during your swing is a critical component to hitting. Watch the best hitters in the game: when they swing and miss, they are still balanced. A good way to work on your balance is to take a swing and hold it when you're finished. If you can "pose" after your swing, you are balanced. Swing hard enough to stay balanced in your finish.

#3 – See The Ball. You have to be able to see the ball out of the pitcher's hand. Work on finding the ball the instant before the pitcher releases it. You can practice this while on deck or in the dugout. This is an overlooked aspect of hitting and by far the most critical. Don't follow the ball from the glove to release. Look at the pitcher's hat or have a soft focus over his throwing shoulder, and then pinpoint your focus on the release. Good luck!

Mike Green is a coach for The Sports Family Club, a website dedicated to enriching the lives of children through sports and activities.

communities, utilize new technologies effectively, and create optimal learning environments that prepare all students for success beyond their K-12 years.

This seems like quite the undertaking, but by sharing challenges and successes, educators in the nation's 14,000 districts can extract what's working, and enrich their own districts with the benefits and best practices of that leadership.

Corona-Norco Unified School District (CNUSD) is benefiting from one such leader: Michael H. Lin, Ed.D. Lin was one of 16 Superintendents in the country honored for their leadership and innovative contributions to education.

Lin came to CNUSD in 2008, and then became Superintendent in 2012. He has helped to make leadership development a critical aspect of the District, enhancing its teaching force and ultimately benefiting the more than 53,000 students who attend its schools.

The 2015 Leaders To Learn From were honored at a live event, held on Mar. 18, in Washington, D.C. Deborah S. Delisle, U.S. Assistant Secretary for Elementary and Secondary Education, and Michael Fullan, Ad-

"When I leave here... I don't want people to say, 'He did this and this and that.' I want people to say that Michael and his staff have put systems in place so that the work can continue."

viser to the Premier and Minister of Education were the Keynote speakers. More than 150 of the most influential leaders from the U.S. Department of Education attended the event, as well.

"These leaders have found great opportunities to innovate and achieve ambitious goals, despite changing policy and budget environments and ever-increasing demands for better performance from teachers and students," said Lesli Maxwell, Assistant Managing Editor at Education Week and the Executive Project Editor for Leaders To Learn From. "Leaders To Learn From shines a light on these leaders who are not always recognized for the highly important work they do, and draws out key lessons that their peers in other school districts can learn from."

In an interview with Education Week Leaders To Learn From, Lin stated, "When I leave here, I want to be sure that whatever good work has taken place is not personality-driven. I don't want people to say, 'He did this and this and that.' I want people to say that Michael and his staff have put systems in place so that the work can continue."

Here we grow again

are only 43 cows left (a quick count on a recent drive by), and the Leal property at the corner of Limonite and Hamner – with a very cosmopolitan future – is one of the only major acreages still undeveloped in the 13.1 square miles of the City.

Recently, citizens have enjoyed new businesses at the Marketplace at the Enclave (southwest corner of Archibald and Schleisman), including Great Harvest Bread Company, Juice it Up, and Mes Amies Hair and Nails. Still on the brink of opening are Lee's Noodle House, Reflexology Foot Massage and a new Bank of America branch with lanes for drive-through banking.

On the other side of town at Gateway South (on Limonite, just west of the 15 Freeway), Eastvale's San Antonio Medical Center is putting the finishing touches on its beautiful new building. Although there have been some delays, a soft opening is scheduled for April, with final completion come May.

One of the best bits of news is the addition of a much needed and much wanted new restaurant. Wait for it...Panera Bread is coming to town! Right in the same center with San Antonio Medical Center and 24-Hour Fitness, the bakery-café will be a welcome addition to Eastvale. Panera says, "We are an everyday oasis for our customers," and we agree with them – although we are going to have to wait for Christmas to open this present. It just might be worth the wait.

Walmart is a go, and although still in the planning phases, it is scheduled to break ground where Limonite meets Archibald at some point in the not too distant future.

The biggest project on the horizon is the Leal Master Plan Project. The City of Eastvale is currently cultivating the Vision, Development and Implementation plans, and the mixed-use town center project could possibly be the flagship of the City. More details are forthcoming, and the City will continue to provide updates as they become available.

There are not too many cities around where everything is relatively brand new, and although Eastvale is rich in history, it is bright in its infrastructure. With amazing schools and lot of possibilities forthcoming, Eastvale is truly becoming a destination city.

Rise And Shine

By PASTOR TIM EATON

My mother used to wake me every morning in a very chipper voice, "Rise and shine!" Then she would open the drapes and the room would fill with blinding light. I couldn't stand it! (I wasn't a morning person back then). It seemed such a shame that a peaceful night's sleep was so abruptly ended.

The only exception to my mother's call to "rise and shine" was Saturday. On Saturdays I would practically jump out of bed hours before anyone else, because it was my day to play!

Some of us struggle to get out of bed because it just feels so nice to be snuggled up in the sheets. Even being awake isn't the end of the world, as long as we can lay there and enjoy the comfort.

But there may also be days that getting up seems impossible, maybe it even sounds like a death sentence; we just want the world to go away. As the pupils of our eyes contract and adjust to the piercing light, we sometimes get up because we have to. And although we are up, we are not truly awake. We go through the day – and even life – like a zombie.

If you are not one to rise and shine, you probably know the reasons why. Is something weighing heavily upon your mind? Was it a mistake for which you can't forgive yourself? Did someone wrong you and you can't move forward. Has a dream come to an end? Have you suffered a loss which seems to have stopped time for you, but the world demands that you march on? Perhaps you can't put your finger on a reason, but life seems to be missing "life" itself.

"Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the Lord rises upon you," (Isaiah 60:1).

Your day to rise, shine and truly live is here. Easter is a wonderful reason to rise! Not only did Jesus rise from death to life on Easter morning, but His hope is for you arise as well. Easter is a reason to rise from whatever is holding you down and shine again.

"Wake up, sleeper, rise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you," (Ephesians 5:14).

Find your reasons to shine at Edgewater: Good Friday Service, April 3, 7 p.m.; Easter Sunday "Rise" Service, April 5, 6:30 a.m.; "Shine" Services, April 5, 8 and 10 a.m. – all at Harada Elementary.

Edgewater Lutheran Church meets Sundays at 10 a.m., worshipping at Harada Elementary, 12884 Oakdale Street, Eastvale, CA, 92880; www.EdgewaterLutheran.org.

Children Of God

By PASTOR ROBERT JEWETT

"But to all who did receive him, who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God, who were born, not of blood nor of the will of the flesh nor of the will of man, but of God," (John 1:12-13).

In the opening chapter of his gospel, the apostle John testifies to a truth that is both mysterious and marvelous: mankind can become children of God.

Not only is it possible for mankind to become children of God, it is a work of God himself (John 1:13, 6:65). Mankind's only responsibility is to receive and believe. The one who receives Christ and believes in his name is the one who repents from his sin and follows Christ at any cost (Mark 1:15, Luke 14:25-33).

As children of God, we have peace with our Maker (Romans 5:1). Our sins are forgiven and we can now live victoriously through our Lord. Christ not only took the penalty of our sins upon himself, he rose from the dead and conquered sin and death.

He has risen...he has risen indeed (1 Corinthians 15:20)!

A Season Of Renewal

By PASTOR MARK LEE

Although Eastvale residents may not notice much of a change, some individuals living in other parts of the United States are currently celebrating the official end of winter. At the same time California has been experiencing temperatures in excess of 90 degrees, New England and parts of the northeast have seen record snowfall. Needless to say, people all over the country are welcoming spring with open arms.

However, you don't have to immerse yourself in freezing temperatures to appreciate the beauty of the season. After all, this is a time of growth and promise. Everywhere you look, the world is emerging from darkness and new life is appearing. The ice is melting, the clouds are receding, and the days that lie ahead are full of possibility. Spring brings hope, optimism and new beginnings. What could be more beautiful?

Perhaps the most wonderful thing about this time of year is that this sense of renewal isn't limited to nature. It is not uncommon for people to be inspired by the beauty of the season and use it as an opportunity to initiate changes in their own lives. Whether this means recommitting to a resolution, improving a relationship, or pursuing a goal, spring gives us the opportunity to start all over again with a clean slate.

Isaiah 40:31 says, "But they who wait for the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings like eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint."

If you are planning to use spring as an opportunity to recharge and refresh your life, I encourage you to include God in that plan. With Him on your side, success is inevitable.

VantagePoint Church meets at Roosevelt High School on Sundays at 9:30 and 11:00 a.m.

An Empty Foundation

By PASTOR DENNIS MORALES

"And certain of those who were with us went to the tomb and found it just as the women had said; but Him they did not see," (Luke 24:24).

There was a city where a building wall collapsed because the foundation caved into an empty tomb; it was unknown and hidden when they built it.

Now if the men intentionally built a building with a hole as a foundation they would be fools. When we look at God and His ability to "hang the earth upon nothing," we think differently.

The church, as we know it, has a foundation that is, in fact, the empty tomb. If His tomb hadn't been emptied, there wouldn't have been any hope. The empty tomb gives us assurance that Jesus is who He said He is.

Jesus "was declared the Son of God with power by the resurrection from the dead," (Romans 1:4). The empty tomb is proof of acceptance of Jesus' sacrifice for all mankind (Romans 5:18).

The empty tomb means death is defeated. There is now no death for those who are in Christ Jesus!

"Where, O death, is your victory? Where, O death, is your sting?" The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. But thanks be to God! He gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ," (1 Corinthians 15:51-57).

Because of the empty tomb, you and I, by faith in Him, have life today and life forever. He is Risen!

Calvary Chapel Eastvale meets Sundays at 10:30 a.m.; and Wednesdays at 7 p.m., at Clara Barton Elementary (7437 Corona Valley Ave., Eastvale). Visit their website at www.CalvaryEastvale.org.

See For Yourself

By PASTOR ED MORENO

Have you ever been to a funeral where the deceased stepped out of the casket? No? Neither have I. But did you know that over 500 people saw Jesus alive again after three days of a confirmed biological death?

Jesus told his followers several times that he would resurrect after being killed, but they didn't believe him – that is until he did it!

What about you, do you believe in the resurrection? No? Why not? If it could be shown that the historical evidence overwhelmingly demonstrates that Jesus did rise, would you believe in Him and follow him?

Well, guess what, the historical evidence does overwhelmingly demonstrate that he rose!

In fact, did you know that if one could disprove that the resurrection occurred, Christianity would virtually disappear overnight? Why? Because the resurrection of Jesus is the very foundation upon which the Christian faith stands or falls.

Listen, instead of just taking some uninformed professor's or loved one's word for it to the negative, why not personally check out the claims of Jesus and the evidence for his resurrection?

I mean, why risk where you'll be spending your afterlife (and there is one, you know)? Don't you think eternity would be a long time to have to regret not coming to know and accept Jesus while you had the chance?

Easter Sunday is on Apr. 5. Please consider this my personal invitation for you to come to New Day to begin that journey of checking out Jesus' claims and the evidence for the resurrection yourself. I'm certain that you'll be glad you did.

New Day Christian Church meets Sundays at 9:30 and 11 a.m. They are located at 7155 Hamner Avenue (formerly "A" Street), at Schleisman Road next to the Fire Station. For more information, call (951) 278-8367, or visit www.new-daycc.net.

Bringing It Home

By PASTOR ROB NORRIS

"Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ also loved the church and gave Himself up for her," (Ephesians 5:25).

On Valentine's Day 2005, Arkansas Governor, Mike Huckabee, and his wife, Janet, restated and renewed their wedding vows along with 4,000 other couples gathered in Little Rock's Alltel Arena. It included husbands and wives of all ages and backgrounds, celebrating the lifelong commitment of covenant marriage.

One of the most touching stories of the night, however, happened not in the crowded arena, but in a nearby home where a couple was listening to the proceedings on the radio.

At one point, the husband became so moved by the significance of the moment that tears began to well in his eyes. Soon they were streaming down his face. His little son, surprised by what he was seeing, crawled into his father's lap and asked, "What's wrong? Why are you crying?" No explanation seemed to satisfy the young boy's curiosity, so he kept asking his father, "Why are you crying, Daddy?"

Finally, the man pulled his son up close and whispered something into his ear. The boy then crawled down quickly and ran to his mom, who was sitting across the room. He took her by the hand, looked into her eyes and explained, "Daddy said he's crying because he loves you so much."

We have a generation of children today who desperately need to look into the eyes of Mom and Dad and see two people deeply in love with each other, committed to one another for life, and honoring God in their relationship. If God has blessed your life with children, make sure your children know and see your love regularly. Make the marriage they see in you the same type of relationship they'll want one day for themselves.

Remember Jesus loves you and wants the best for your marriage.

Live It: If your children were asked to describe your relationship, what would they say? Why not ask them.

Pray: Pray that your children see real love between two real people for a lifetime.

ful and motivated, but most importantly, informed.

Our “What’s Up With Walmart?” post continues to get a lot of comments from our followers. If you’ve been keeping up, many of the residents in Eastvale want nothing to do with the new Walmart Super Green Store coming to the corner of Archibald and Limonite avenues. Most are still hoping for a Trader Joe’s or additional restaurants in the City. Keep following Eastvale News for more updates on the new store.

Residents gave a huge “thank you” to the Eastvale Police Department for their great work in arresting two suspects in unrelated crimes in the City. The Eastvale Carjacker has been caught, along with a suspect who committed three armed robberies in various locations throughout the City. It’s a relief to know our streets are just a little safer now.

Near the end of March, many followers were surprisingly not shocked at our article, “Eastvale Maternity Motels.” This story revealed information about pregnant women from other countries who live as groups in various homes throughout the southland for the purpose of birthing their children in America to obtain citizenship. Many Eastvale residents were certain this was going on in their neighborhoods.

On a lighter note, we now have an Events Calendar that covers Eastvale, Norco, Corona and Chino. The Eastvale News is dedicated to keeping its followers up to date on family outing opportunities, City meetings, and special events in and around our fair city.

VALVOLINE TRANSMISSION SERVICE

MUST PRESENT COUPON TO GET THIS PRICE

SERVICE NEEDED: After 30,000 miles, transmission fluid begins to turn brown in color and oxidize due to the contamination of time and heat. Deposits form around the transmission's many moving parts. As a result, valves stick and gears slip or are sluggish and chatter as they shift.

SOLUTION: Rather than just draining the contaminated fluid found in the bottom of the pan, special equipment cleans the entire transmission and its torque converter, while new fluid and premium conditioner are added. One of the hardest working parts of your vehicle will shift smoothly and effortlessly for many more trouble-free miles.

Most vehicles. No additional discounts apply. Synthetic transmission fluid extra. Redeem at Mountain View Tire location. See store for complete details. Exp. 4/30/15
