Where Are You?

By MICHAEL ARMIJO

It felt like a chill. Like a tingling inside my skull. As though I had missed something extremely important. Or something devastating. It was the shrill in her voice that really impacted me.

"Where are you? I've been trying to get a hold of you for over an hour!"

I was a bit confused, a bit nervous about what I was about to hear, but I had to ask the question:

"Why? What happened? What's so important?"

I was pretty shocked to hear the outcome of the question why I was being sought out so drastically.

"I couldn't get a hold of you!"

That was it. I felt the shrill, the panic, the worry for; 'I couldn't get a hold of you.'

I was left trying to figure out: when did it happen? When did we get to a point in our lives that our whereabouts are necessary at all times? Or the flip side, when did our family become so insecure that they need to know where we are upon demand?

There was a time, not too far in the past, when we had privacy. We had time alone. Time for ourselves. Technology, in this day and age, seems to have given that 'right' away. Those moments of reflection, moments of inner thought. Those moments of peace, of serenity. We seem to continue to a need to be clouded, distracted, or entertained constantly.

There are times we must shut the computer, the iPad, the phone, the internet, and the TV off. To take a walk, to sit outside. To talk, read, share, and to listen. To learn how to communicate without a keyboard or a text message.

But our demise for 'instance' isn't just technology's fault, we too are to blame. We are constantly allowing others to rely on us to a point of severe dependency. Our thirst for technology and our constant obsession only shows our loved ones that it's important to obsessively see all, and to know all, every minute and every second of the day. Our behavior has taught them to react in a shrilling tone, in a panicked voice. Until we are pinpointed, marked, labeled, or GPS'd until the question is answered: "Where are you?"

Green Is The New Orange This Halloween

Discover new ways to reduce, reuse and recycle this Halloween

COURTESY OF WASTE MANAGEMENT OF SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Inland Empire – Halloween is just around the corner and in the next few weeks, residents will begin transforming their homes into haunted castles. Before they do, Waste Management of Southern California wants to remind residents that there are several ways in which they can get into the spooky spirit without scaring off Mother Nature.

"Between the candy, costumes and decorations that are typically used once before being tossed to the curb, Halloween is notorious for accumulating trash," said Eloisa Orozco, spokesperson for Waste Management of Southern California. "To help keep the spirit of the holiday without making it a nightmare for the environment, we're offering our customers a handful of tips that they can easily use to reduce waste and be green during the Halloween season!"

Zombies, princesses and superheroes can keep their Halloween celebrations festive and eco-friendly by using the following tips from Waste Management:

• Give your pumpkin a second life. Instead of tossing your used jack-o'-lantern to the curb after Halloween, remove the candle and add it to a compost pile. Organic waste, such as unwanted pumpkins and fallen leaves, is nutrient rich and can help enrich fertilizer and produce healthier lawns, plants and flowers.

• Hand out eco-friendly treats. Health food stores offer a wide range of candy from organic chocolates to organic lollipops. These tasty treats are produced using methods that are not damaging to the environment.

• Use recyclable bags for your trick-or-treaters. Create a unique candy basket or simply put a reusable bag to good use. Avoiding the plastic jack-o'-lantern containers will clear up space in the home, save money and add a dash of originality to your child's costume.

• Make your own costumes. Put less stress on your wallet by opting for costumes made of reusable or recycled materials. You can find Halloween costume materials from thrift stores or yard sales.

• Walk instead of drive. Rather than drive to other neighborhoods, stay close to home and trick-or-treat in your neighborhood. By walking from house to house you are reducing fuel consumption and air pollution.

• Throw a green Halloween party. Purchase organic pumpkins for carving and apples for bobbing from local organic farms. Once the jack-o-lanterns are carved and the bobbing is complete, use the apples and pumpkins for pies, soups and other tasty dishes.

• Help keep neighborhoods clean while trick-or-treating. Carry an extra bag and pick up litter along the way. Candy wrappers can be a big source of litter on local streets during Halloween.

Huff Supports National Bullying Prevention Month

Senator Alarmed by Reports That Many Students Face Daily Harassment, Especially Those with Life Threatening Food Allergies

COURTESY OF SENATOR BOB HUFF

San Dimas – Senator Bob Huff (R-San Dimas) announced his support earlier this month for National Bullying Prevention Awareness Month, aimed at reducing or even preventing bullying on school campuses, playgrounds and elsewhere. The effort, created by the organization STOMP Out Bullying, observes October as a time to raise awareness and education.

"I am greatly concerned by statistics that show one out of every four students in America deal with the threat of bullying every single day of their lives," said Senator Huff. "Being the target of a bully is a scary fact of life for far too many children and teenagers. The good news is we can take action to prevent harm done to our children. One of those steps is to raise awareness to the issue and then confront it."

According to statistics:

- 1 out of 4 kids are bullied
- 9 out of 10 LGBT students experience harassment at school
- Depending on their ages, up to 43% of kids and teens report being cyberbullied
- 8% of kids stay home from school each day due to the fear of being bullied
- 1/3 of children with life threatening food allergies are bullied

One particular form of bullying concerning Huff is that which is aimed at children who suffer from life threatening food allergies. A recent study from the Journal of the American Academy of Pediatrics discovered the following: "31.5 percent of the children and 24.7 percent of the parents reported bullying specifically due to food allergies, including threats with foods, primarily by classmates."

"Children who suffer from food allergies face serious consequences, which could include grave outcomes, if they are bullied with the very food that can kill them," said Senator Huff. "This is a serious threat that has recently come to my attention through my previous legislative work on this issue. School should be safe for all students and hearing stories from children who have been spit at in an attempt to get them sick is heartbreaking. I am looking at possible legislation to address this particular form of bullying before it gets worse."

Senator Huff represents the 29th Senate District covering portions of Los Angeles, Orange and San Bernardino Counties.

"One of the highlights this year is our 'Ask the Doctor' booth featuring the event's Grand Marshal Dr. Greg Ogilvie and Dr. Darlene Sanchez, founder of Loving Hands Animal Hospital, Inc. in Chino, where the public will have the opportunity to ask leading veterinary doctors questions about their pets," Rudin said. "This year, our fundraising goal is $15,000 and we hope the entire community will join us in this great cause, all while having fun with their pets," Rudin said. Pets will also be available for adoption from Priceless Pets Rescue, a Chino Hills based no-kill, volunteer animal shelter serving the Inland Empire.

A registration fee is required for all pets. Rudin encourages pet owners to registration their dogs early to receive a discount. To register, visit www.relayforlife.org/barkchinoca. Admission is free and open to the public. Proceeds will be used by the American Cancer Society to assist local cancer patients, for community education. "The first 200 dogs will receive a commemorative bandana. We also have goodies for the humans," she said. # Pomona Unified Cosmetology Program Expands

Pomona – The Pomona Unified Adult and Career Education’s Barbering and Cosmetology program has expanded partnerships to include eligible high school students from nearby school districts who are interested in taking advantage of the innovative and popular course offering, which launched last year.

The PUSD Adult and Career Education Program is articulating with the San Antonio Regional Occupational Program – which serves students from Bonita Unified and Pomona Unified – and Baldy View Regional Occupational Program – serving students from Chino Valley, Claremont, Upland and Chaffey school districts – to provide the articulated course.

This is the first time that two regional occupation programs have collaborated to meet the needs of high school students in Pomona and surrounding districts.

“This innovative model supports Pomona Unified students who wish to pursue a career after high school, while also extending admission to local high school students who desire the same high-quality level of training but don’t have access to it in their areas,” Board of Education President Andrew Wong said. “This speaks volumes of the caliber programs PUSD offers and how the partnerships we forge are able to benefit all students.”

Under the collaboration, high school students from these districts will have the opportunity to pursue Barbering and Cosmetology State Board licensure requirements, complete the two-year course and become workforce-ready by the end of the senior year.

“This offers students an incredible opportunity to pursue their careers and receive hands-on training while in high school,” said Enrique Medina, director of Career Readiness at PUSD. “We welcome all additional applicants to our program and appreciate Baldy View and San Antonio’s collaborative approach to provide real-world education and mentorship for our students.”

of Completion in Cosmetology, students must enroll in their junior year of high school and complete the 1,600-hour course over the next two years. Upon graduation from high school, students will begin accepting clients in preparation for the State Board exam.

Client operation hours will run from 5:15 to 7:15 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays and from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays. All work will be performed by students in training.

“We are thrilled to expand program enrollment and look forward to its continued success,” Pomona Unified Superintendent Richard Martinez said. “The increasing popularity of this program speaks volumes of the high-quality education and vocational train-resurfacing Archibald Avenue between Limonite Avenue and north of City limits, say Eastvale Public Works Department officials.

The work will continue until Oct. 15.

Local access to businesses and residences will be maintained throughout all construction activities.

Commuters are encouraged to use alternate routes during resurfacing process.

According to a city-issued news release, flaggers will be provided as needed to assist traffic through the work zone.

Road work will continue through the weekend to minimize weekday traffic congestion.

response. The focus was land-based operations which primarily deal with how to rescue a victim safely out of a fast flowing river or channel without having to enter the water.

Upcoming future training will certify these SAR team members as Swift-water Rescue Technicians. Many current SAR team members already possess this certification, which deals with how to rescue a person trapped in a river or channel by entering the water and making contact with them. Swift-water rescue responses are the highest level of risk to the public safety agencies who respond. One-third of all swift-water deaths are rescuers who attempt to save someone from a river or channel.

The eight SAR teams consist of team members who live in the immediate area and they will be pre-identifying likely areas prone to flooding. They will coordinate with our public safety partner agencies who are stakeholders in flood responses. Once identified, the teams will pre-plan rescue sites for those areas including the identification of possible hazards.

SAR teams work closely with LASD's Special Enforcement Bureau Emergency Services Detail (SEB/ESD), a highly trained and multi-mission bureau which staffs Air Rescue 5, the premier helicopter rescue platform. SEB/ESD deputies operate 24-hours a day, seven days a week. In addition to their tactical operations, all SEB/ESD deputies are certified paramedics and rescue divers. SEB/ESD is responsible for coordinating and participating in mountain search and rescue, underwater search and rescue, and swift water and flood rescue operations for the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. They staff the Air-5 Rescue Helicopter, the SEB/ESD Ocean Rescue Boats, and are Special Weapons Team members.

Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department Search and Rescue Team members are Reserve Sheriff's deputies who volunteer their time to help others for $1 a year, and who partner with sheriff's civilian volunteers who volunteer for free. There are 200 members of the eight Search and Rescue teams of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. They are all Emergency Medical Technicians and certified mountaineers. These rescuers were activated for 597 search and rescue missions last year, making it one of the most active counties for search and rescue missions in the nation. Reserve deputies and civilian volunteers are supervised by full-time sheriff's deputies. For more information on the ongoing El Niño event, please visit <http://www.elnino.noaa.gov/>.

Straight Talk With Danice

A Letter From Loretta

By DANICE AKIYOSHI, N.D.

Q: I just found out that my 38-year-old son is planning to move in with me. He is in the middle of a divorce and apparently things are getting desperate for him financially because of attorney fees. I heard this through the family grapevine. I am a widow and I've lived alone for three years. I don't want a roommate at this stage of my life. I would be more willing to loan him the money for his attorney fees. My brother-in-law says this is cold hearted of me. I love my son, but want a peaceful home.

A: If living alone feels best to you, you should be honest about your preference. Living with someone is a big deal. Family grapevines are not always accurate, but if your son does approach you to pitch this arrangement, you should definitely express the ways you're willing to help him while at the same time explaining that living as roommates does not work for you. It is quite generous of you to offer financial support during this difficult time in his life. You can offer emotional support in many different ways as well. Good luck!

Do You Have A Passport?

By PASTOR MARK HOPPER

Everyone who travels outside their own country is required to carry a passport. We are now required to have a passport to even visit Mexico and Canada.

A passport reveals a lot about a person. A passport identifies you as a citizen of a specific country. My passport clearly states that I am a citizen of the United States of America. I am thankful to carry a US passport.

In addition, a passport tells a lot about you. It includes the date and location of your birth. It includes your photograph so that you can quickly and easily be identified with the information in it. It tells when your passport was issued to you and the date it will expire.

Your passport also contains a record of the places you have been. When you enter a foreign country, they usually stamp your passport to record the date you entered and the date you departed. It indicates if you arrived by plane, train or by automobile. It is fun to thumb through the pages in your passport and remember the adventures you have shared and the places you have been in the past.

Sometimes airlines will put a sticker on the outside of your passport. This indicates that you have been interviewed or screened for security purposes before they allow you to board their airplane.

Today, many countries are relying more on electronic screening. They can scan or swipe your passport and immediately know a lot about you. You may find this comforting or you may feel concerned that there is so much information about you in their records.

I don't know if they had passports in ancient times, but I do know that citizenship was a big deal even in Bible times.

The Apostle Paul invoked his rights as a Roman citizen on several occasions (Acts chapters 16 and 22). Citizens of Rome had additional rights and protections that were not granted to non-citizens.

In one of his letters, Paul says "Our citizenship is in heaven..." (Philippians 3:20). Paul was both proud and thankful to be a citizen of Rome, but he was even more thankful to be a citizen of heaven through his faith in Jesus Christ.

If you have a passport, let me encourage you to dust it off and look through the pages. It will be a helpful reminder of the places you have been to. And, if you are not sure about your citizenship in heaven, let me encourage you to dust off your Bible and read some of the things that the Apostle Paul wrote his letters to the Romans and Ephesians about how you become one.

Facing Grief Head On

By NANCY STOOPS, M.A., M.F.T.

I know from lots of personal experience the loss of a loved one is devastating. I know it can dump a person into a very severe depression. It can make us feel like we just can't go on and that life isn't worth living without that loved one. I have literally helped thousands of people heal from the death of a loved one. I know it's important to understand that we all must leave this world when it is our time. Death has no logic or fairness it just is and is the hardest part of living. I also know that we heal when we find a way to live that honors ourselves and our loved ones still here and our loved ones that have passed away.

The worst thing we can do is feel guilty that we are still alive but a very special loved one has passed away. No matter what we do, say or feel, nothing can bring that loved one back to us. All we can do is live our lives fully, live our lives for ourselves and for all of our loved ones that have passed away. The truth is that our loved ones don't want to die and make us feel such unbearable pain because they are no longer here. So it's very important to fully appreciate the life of a loved one when they are alive and with us. One of the tricks of a very successful life is to take nothing for granted especially those closest to us.

So when you lose a loved one grieve but don't give up on your life. Remember we are all only here for such a short time so live well and love well and I promise then you will have no regrets. Don't waste your life because we only get one time to do it all. Tell people you love them, be affectionate and when they pass away carry them in your heart forever!
