FDR Gives First Fireside Chat

COURTESY OF HISTORY.COM

On March 12, 1933, eight days after his inauguration, President Franklin D. Roosevelt gave his first national radio address or “fireside chat,” broadcast directly from the White House.

Roosevelt began that first address simply: “I want to talk for a few minutes with the people of the United States about banking.” He went on to explain his recent decision to close the nation’s banks in order to stop a surge in mass withdrawals by panicked investors worried about possible bank failures. The banks would be reopening the next day, Roosevelt said, and he thanked the public for their “fortitude and good temper” during the “banking holiday.”

At the time, the U.S. was at the lowest point of the Great Depression, with between 25 and 33 percent of the work force unemployed. The nation was worried, and Roosevelt’s address was designed to ease fears and to inspire confidence in his leadership. Roosevelt went on to deliver 30 more of these broadcasts between March 1933 and June 1944. They reached an astonishing number of American households, with 90 percent of owning radios on which they were able to listen.

Journalist Robert Trout coined the phrase “fireside chat” to describe Roosevelt’s radio addresses, invoking an image of the president sitting by a fire in a living room, speaking earnestly to the American people about his hopes and dreams for the nation. In fact, Roosevelt took great care to make sure each address was accessible and understandable to ordinary Americans, regardless of their level of education. He used simple vocabulary and relied on folksy anecdotes or analogies to explain the often complex issues facing the country.

Over the course of his historic 12-year presidency, Roosevelt used the chats to build popular support for his groundbreaking New Deal policies. After World War II began, he used them to explain his administration’s wartime policies to the American people.

The success of Roosevelt’s chats was evident not only in his three re-elections, but also in the millions of letters that flooded the White House. Farmers, business owners, men, women, rich, poor—most of them expressed the feeling that the president had entered their home and spoken directly to them. In an era when presidents had previously communicated with their citizens almost exclusively through spokespeople and journalists, it was an unprecedented step. ■

History 101

1st Academy Awards Telecast

COURTESY OF HISTORY.COM

Thursday, March 19, 1953, proved to be a historic date, because for the first time, audiences were able to sit in their living rooms and watch as the movie world’s most prestigious honors, the Academy Awards, are given out at the RKO Pantages Theatre in Hollywood, California.

Organized in May 1927, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences was envisioned as a non-profit organization dedicated to the advancement of the film industry. The first Academy Awards were handed out in May 1929, in a ceremony and banquet held in the Blossom Room of the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel. The level of suspense was nonexistent, however, as the winners had already been announced several months earlier. For the next 10 years, the Academy gave the names of the winners to the newspapers for publication at 11 p.m. on the night of the awards ceremony; this changed after one paper broke the tacit agreement and published the results in the evening edition, available before the ceremony began. A sealed envelope system began the next year, and endures to this day, making Oscar night Hollywood’s most anticipated event of the year.

Public interest in the Oscars was high from the beginning, and from the second year on the ceremony was covered in a live radio broadcast. The year 1953 marked the first time that the Academy Awards were broadcast on the fledgling medium of television. The National Broadcasting Company (NBC) TV network carried the 25th annual awards ceremony live from Hollywood’s RKO Pantages Theatre. Bob Hope was the master of ceremonies, while Fredric March, a two-time Academy Award winner for Best Actor (for 1932’s Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde and 1946’s The Best Years of Our Lives), presented the awards. The statuette for Best Picture went to Cecil B. DeMille’s The Greatest Show on Earth, while John Ford won Best Director for The Quiet Man. Winners in the top two acting categories were Gary Cooper (High Noon) and Shirley Booth (Come Back, Little Sheba).

Hope, a star of stage and screen who tirelessly performed in United Service Organization (USO) shows for American troops during World War II, would become a mainstay of the new TV medium. He was also the most venerated Academy Awards host, playing MC no fewer than 18 times between 1939 and 1977. NBC broadcast the Oscars until 1961, when the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) took over for the next decade, including the first awards broadcast in color in 1966. Although NBC briefly regained the show in the

Two Tea Cups

By PASTOR MARK HOPPER

Having a cup of tea is one of my wife's favorite things. She enjoys a warm cup of tea on a cold winter's night at home. She enjoys going out with friends to a local tea shop. She also enjoys taking our daughters and our grandchildren out to a special Tea Party. The grandkids get special sandwiches and desserts along with a variety of flavored tea, and they love having Tea Parties with Grammy at our house, too.

Enjoying a cup of tea and collecting tea cups are a big deal in our family.

Recently, one of our daughters, who lives out of the area, sent my wife a package. In the box was a beautiful tea cup and a note.

Her note explained that while she was out shopping, she saw this tea cup and thought of her mother. Our daughter knew that my wife already had plenty of tea cups, but she bought this one to let her mother know she was thinking of her.

Our daughter went on to explain that she had actually purchased two tea cups. One was for herself and one was for her mother. Even though they don't live nearby, my wife and our daughter would have matching tea cups to share.

In her note she wrote, "I got a matching tea cup for me - just like yours, so when I drink out of it, I will be praying for you and you can be praying for me."

These matching tea cups are a tangible reminder of the bond that is shared by a mother and her daughter.

You may share something similar with a friend or loved one. Some people have matching bracelets. Others have one-half of a charm or necklace, with their friend or loved one having the other half.

In the Bible, there are many examples of visual, tangible reminders that God provided to remind his people of his love. In the Christian Faith, we share a piece of bread and a small cup of juice to remind us of the Last Supper that Jesus shared with His disciples. The bread is a reminder of His body that was nailed to the Cross and the cup is a reminder of His blood that was shed at His crucifixion.

In the Jewish faith, they share several items of food including unleavened bread and cups of wine as they remember the Passover recorded in Exodus. These are tangible and visible reminders of God's love and care.

I wonder if you have something on your shelf or in your cupboard that is a helpful reminder of someone's love or concern for you? Is there someone in your family or at your place of work that would be encouraged by a thoughtful gift from you?

Two tea cups can be a timely reminder that you are thinking of others and they are thinking of you!

Pastor Mark Hopper is from the Evangelical Free Church of Diamond Bar, 3255 South Diamond Bar Blvd. Sunday services are 9 a.m. and 10:45 a.m. For more information, call (909) 594-7604 or visit www.efreedb.org. ■

Straight Talk With Danice

Spoiled Sister - A letter from Fed Up

By DANICE AKIYOSHI, N.D.

Q: Both of my parents passed away two years ago. My sister was very dependent on both of them. Now that they're gone, she looks to me to entertain her at every holiday and birthday, as if she were still a child, and bail her out financially when she makes stupid mistakes. She never pitches in for anything that doesn't directly affect her. She makes comments like "mom and dad would want you to take care of me. I'm the baby of the family and you make more money than me," (she is 47). Neither of us is married, but I don't want her to think that she can lean on me for the rest of her life.

A: Your sister has a sense of entitlement. Make it clear that you have no interest in acting out the role of her parent or spouse. I'm guessing that your parents did her a major disservice by allowing her to arrive into middle age with this degree of emotional immaturity. Make it clear that your role is that of a sibling and not a caretaker. Be honest about the fact that you no longer even see her as enjoyable company because of the way she takes you for granted. If you have feelings of guilt, or have trouble standing up to her manipulation tactics, I would be happy to assist you.

Free Counseling Is Available

By NANCY STOOPS, M.A., M.F.T.

For the past eighteen years, I have had the honor of facilitating a free counseling group every Monday evening. Our group meets at the Walnut Teen Center and Gymnasium, located at 21003 La Puente Road, in the city of Walnut. We meet year-round from 6-8 p.m. every Monday, unless it is a holiday. The Teen Center's phone number is (909) 444-0089 and my contact number is (909) 229-0727, should you have any questions. You do not need to have an appointment to attend this group- you are free to drop by anytime. This group satisfies many court-mandated needs.

Even though this group meets at a teen center, I invite people of all ages with all types of issues to come. This group helps parents, students, and many other people who are struggling in their lives. My goal is to make our community be healthier, make its population be effective in their lives, and create successful human beings. We work on an array of issues that many people in this day and age are dealing with. There is no reason for anybody to be stuck in an unhealthy place.

If you are tired of the fight between you and your child regarding homework, or need more effective ways to communicate, this is the group for you. Maybe depression or anxiety seems to be holding you or a loved one back- finding solutions could be life changing. If you or somebody you know is struggling with drugs or drinking, this group is a great place to get some coping skills to get clean. We talk about ways to deal with bullies and how damaging bullying can be for a person's self-esteem. Bring in an issue and I promise you will feel hopeful and have new tools to help you confront the issue head-on when you leave. Don't let embarrassment stop you or a loved one from getting the help you need to reclaim the wonderful life you are so deserving of.

BP Reinstates Spring Egg Hunt

Special “diamond egg” incorporated for city’s 60th anniversary

COURTESY CITY OF BP

Baldwin Park - A special hunt is coming to Baldwin Park just in time for spring! After a three-year hiatus, the city’s traditional Spring Egg Hunt celebration will return to Morgan Park, 4100 Baldwin Park Blvd., on Saturday, March 26.

The event, which is open to families and their children, is free of charge. It will begin at 10 a.m.

Mike Salas, a program supervisor with the city’s Department of Recreation and Community Services, said officials are bringing back the traditional spring kickoff event, which was last held in 2012. Organizers are excited to reinstate the spring festivities that will bring residents out to enjoy some time with other locals.

“This allows families to gather, to create community, and to have a great time,” said Salas.

On tap for the Egg Hunt celebration are arts and crafts activities, as well as a visit from the Spring bunny, who will also make an appearance on a fire truck to help kick off festivities. Photos with the bunny will be available for purchase for $3 each.

The event highlight, of course, is children’s scavenger hunt for treat-filled eggs. Salas said thousands of eggs and healthy snacks will be peppered across the park lawn in order to be claimed by participants when the egg hunt officially begins on March 26.

Unique to this year’s egg hunt are a series of “diamond eggs” that will be included in each hunt, to commemorate Baldwin Park’s 60th anniversary according to organizers. Diamond eggs are similar to “golden eggs” typically incorporated into some large-scale egg hunts; they are special to Baldwin Park, since the city is celebrating its diamond anniversary this year. Youth who discover a diamond egg will be awarded a special basket filled with a slew of goodies and treats.

Organizers anticipate as many as 800 people to attend the special Egg Hunt, which is designed for children age 12 and under. To accommodate young visitors, egg hunt participants will be divided into four groups: those age 3 and under; 4-6 year olds; 7-9 year olds; and those age 10-12. To help children capitalize on their hunting techniques and fun, parents will not be allowed in the hunt areas.

“For kids, this event really allows them to enjoy their parks, and, this year, it also allows them to know about the 60th anniversary of the city,” said Salas. “We plan on putting in a special touch and allowing the next generation of Baldwin Park residents to appreciate the community.”

For more information about the Spring Egg Hunt, contact (626) 813-5245, Ext. 317 or via e-mail at msalas@baldwinpark.com.

Ten Easy Tips To Live By

Eating healthily is all about balance. Every now and then it's perfectly okay to have pie for dinner or a nice slice of cake at tea-time- treats are a part of life –but it's also important to recognize when we're pushing things too far. Indulgent food should be enjoyed and savored, but only occasionally. It's important to remember that the majority of our diet should be made up of balanced, nutritious everyday foods. Make healthy food a priority in your life and allow it to bring your family and friends together. Learn to love how it makes you feel, how delicious it is and remember that a healthy balanced diet and regular exercise are the keys to a healthy lifestyle.

Here are ten easy tips to live by:

1. Cook from scratch – This is one of the most important life skills you can learn. It allows you to have complete control of what goes into your food;
2. Eat a balanced diet- Aim to eat a balanced diet that contains each of the food groups in the correct proportions;
3. Variety is key, eat the rainbow- Fill your diet with a wide range of fruits, vegetables, lean meats, fish, eggs, nuts, seeds, whole grains and naturally low-fat dairy foods. When it comes to fruits and vegetables, different colors provide your body with different nutrients it needs to stay strong and healthy- it's not just greens that are good for you!
4. Understand what you're eating- Make an effort to learn about the food you're eating-we all need to understand where our food comes from and how it affects our bodies;
5. Eat nutritious calories- Make sure the majority of your energy intake comes from nutritious calories that also provide your body with nutrients like vitamins, minerals, protein, fiber and good fats. Avoid empty calories;
6. Don't skip breakfast – Breakfast kick-starts your metabolism and helps you to be alert and awake throughout the day. Make sure you always eat a nutritious breakfast. Make it wholesome and make it count;
7. Read the small print- It's important to read packaging correctly. Be aware of the recommended portion sizes, and the sugar, salt, and saturated fat contents;

8. Drink more water- Water is an essential part of your diet. Drink plenty of water and avoid empty calories from things such as soft drinks, energy drinks or juices with added sugar. Eat your calories, don't drink them;

9. Keep active- Exercise is an extremely important factor in staying healthy, so try to be as active as you can;

10. Sleep well- Make sure you get enough sleep, it's an essential part of being healthy and directly affects how well we are able to learn, grow and act in life. While we're asleep, our bodies have that all-important time to repair. ■

Shooting investigation in San Gabriel

LASD Homicide detectives have learned that San Gabriel Police Department (SGPD) personnel responded to the residence regarding a "man shot" at the location. Prior to SGPD's arrival, the call was updated to state that the person who was shot was a burglary suspect.

When SGPD officers arrived, they saw one male, Black suspect lying on the driveway of the residence suffering from gunshot wounds. SGPD officers also learned that the victim and resident of the house was an off-duty Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) lieutenant.

Preliminary investigation revealed that the victim was home alone, sleeping, when he heard noises coming from inside of his house. Fearing for his life, the homeowner armed himself. During the burglary, the homeowner confronted two, unknown, burglary suspects inside his home. The suspects then fled through a kitchen window, which was also the initial point of entry. As the homeowner stood near the window, he saw one of the suspects reach for his waistband and turn towards him. Fearing the suspect had armed himself and was going to seriously hurt or kill the homeowner, an officer-involved shooting subsequently occurred.

Both suspects were struck by gunfire and fled the immediate scene. One of the suspects was detained by SGPD in the driveway of the residence, suffering from a gunshot wound to his upper torso.

The second suspect was also struck by gunfire in his upper torso and was driven to a local hospital by a third suspect. The driver then dropped off the wounded suspect and a fourth suspect at the hospital, and fled the scene.

During the course of the investigation, two suspects were detained at the local hospital and the driver of the car was detained at a separate location.

All four suspects have subsequently been arrested. The identities and ages of the suspects are not confirmed at this time. The off-duty LAPD lieutenant was not injured. No suspect weapon was been recovered at this time.

The investigation is ongoing and there is no additional information available at this time.

Anyone with information about this incident is encouraged to contact the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department's Homicide Bureau at (323) 890-5500. If you prefer to provide information anonymously, you may call "Crime Stoppers" by dialing (800) 222-TIPS (8477), or texting the letters TIPLA plus your tip to CRIMES (274637), or by using the website <http://lacrimestoppers.org>.
