Community Shares Concerns About Future Eastvale Apartments

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale -Several Eastvale community members gathered at the July 28 City Council meeting to voice their concerns about the proposed apartments to be built on Sumner and Schleisman Road. The meeting was packed with residents holding "No Density APT" signs, with crowds of people both inside and outside the building. It was reported that there were over 50 speakers addressing their concerns and providing suggestions to the council, and the housing portion of the meeting lasted over 4 hours long.

The conversation among the community started when Stratham Homes proposed to build 216 High-Density apartments and townhomes at the corner of Sumner and Schleisman Road. The structures are proposed to be 2 and 3 stories tall and include a 5,000 sq. ft. complex on the property.

The main concerns of the community are the increased

Our Life: When I Go To Church, I Feel Peace

BY MICHAEL ARMIJO

One element that filled my childhood was the element of God. My father made us, and I do mean made us, go to church every Sunday; sometimes on Wednesdays, too. Come to think of it, sometimes Friday's as well. And once a month we also had to go on Mondays.

I remember countless hours of praying, praying, and praying. You can't claim your fame to praying unless you know the Rosary. For a while we did it every night.

All of this praying and going to church, what did it do for us? I believe this excessiveness of "God" created a few major influences in my life.

I Believe I Can Fly: The Element of Faith. In every aspect of life you can sense a source of faith. If you ask people like Michael Jordan, his faith was in his father, and then himself. For Evander Holyfield, the Almighty God is his inspiration and faith. Almost every successful person has some source of faith in someone or something. Without this element, many people have said they wouldn't be where they are today.

I Believe and I'm Not Worrying About It: The Element of a Worry-Free Life. If there is a God, then everything is beyond your control. You still have responsibilities, but the stress level is lower. And the best thing about a life without worry is everything happens for a reason. There are only two concerns at this level of life: things you can control, and things you can't. If you can control them, then you don't have to worry about it; and if you can't control them, it's in God's hands so you don't have to worry about it. Either way, you don't have to worry about it.

I Believe in Lettuce: The Foundation of Recovery. Acceptance, rationalizing, everything happens for a reason, keep the faith, don't worry be happy, it's beyond our control, etc. If you study the Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Overeaters Anonymous, or any other support group, the first thing they promote is the element of faith. They tout that the reason you're in trouble with excessive behavior of alcohol or drugs or food is the fact that you've let go of your beliefs.

At some point in your life you've developed an absence of faith and decided to take the world's worry upon yourself. Some people have told me that since they've lost so much trust in the world, they've ceased to believe there is a God. For those people, support groups have asked them to try to develop a sense of faith even if it means having faith in a head of lettuce. Sounds ridiculous? I've been told it works, this playing along. People get the feel of faith again and it starts to get restored. Soon afterward, they develop a trust in God again, and it's at that point their life starts to turn around.

I Believe I'll Rest in Peace: I'm not saying if you don't believe in God your life is worthless, but I am saying there's more to this life than we can explain. God has told us to have faith and we will survive in a peaceful and loving world. Man has told us we came from monkeys and you have the right to bear arms and kill each other because we're free. At this point, I think God's version of life is easier and more acceptable. And dad, if you're listening up there from heaven, thanks for drilling into us over and over again about prayer. Because when I go into a church, regardless of how I feel about the world, I always feel peace.

Community shares concerns about future Apartments

traffic the apartments will bring. The residents suspect the traffic will increase collisions and pose a risk to children walking or riding bikes to school, which is only a half mile away. They are also concerned about the road diets that they expect will go along with the apartments.

Residents are hopeful that the Council listed to their concerns and will come up with another solution that meets the needs of the Housing Element Plan and the community.

The City has discussed their Housing Element Plan in news releases and videos. They recently uploaded a video discussing how every City in the state of California is required to update their housing element plan every eight years. "This is a state mandate and by law, requires our city to comply," stated the City in a Facebook post. However, they encourage the community to provide their input view the RHNA (Regional Housing Needs Allocation) Challenge.

The challenge is an online simulation tool where community members have an opportunity to be a "resident planner" and create a "balanced housing plan by adjusting future housing units to meet State requirements."

The City stated that the ideas created in this simulation are a "key piece of community input that will guide the development of our Housing Element planning document update to be in compliance with state regulations." Once residents are completed with their housing plan, you can submit it directly to the City and the City team will use the results to inform the Housing Element update.

You can access the simulation tool through the month of August by visiting: <https://eastvaleca.abalancingact.com/TaketheRHNAChallenge>

The City also provided a list of frequently answered questions about the Housing Element that can be found here: <https://engage.eastvaleca.gov/housing-element>.

Voortman's Farm Fresh Eggs

a lot of chickens at the Voortman ranch!

Did you know that you can tell how fresh an egg is by how high the yolk stands up in the frying pan after you crack it? Voortman's will have your over-easies standing tall. Their fresh eggs are the highest in quality, with dark, nutrient-dense yolks. You will immediately notice a difference in your cooking and baking.

Have you ever wondered how long the eggs in the grocery stores have actually been sitting around? Despite the use-by date, there is really no way to know how long ago they were produced. With Voortman's, the eggs are selected daily, on site, and readied for you in their store.

Third-generation egg rancher, Eddie Voortman, says, "We are a local, family-owned business that provides fresh, quality products to the public."

Customers of Voortman's rave about their all natural, cage free eggs, touting the freshness, and great pricing. One customer said, "They make the fluffiest scrambled eggs!"

The eggs come in all sizes and colors, depending on your needs. Whatever you choose, you will not be disappointed.

Voortman's is centrally located just minutes from Chino at 13960 Grove Avenue in Ontario (just north of Edison). You can reach Voortman's at (909) 465-1319; and Like them on Facebook at <https://www.facebook.com/pages/Voortmans-Egg-Ranch>.

India

Mark Hopper

One of the most memorable places my wife and I have visited is India. Several years ago we flew from Los Angeles to Taiwan then on to Singapore and arrived in Mumbai on the west coast of India. It was a long journey. We spent several days in Mumbai seeing some of the sights and visiting some ministries working among the poorest people in the city. Then we flew to Hyderabad where our host met us at the airport and drove 3-4 hours outside the city to a boarding school and orphanage.

We were surprised by the heavy traffic. Driving in India is not for the faint hearted. Hundreds of cars, trucks and scooters crammed together honking their horns as they waited for the traffic lights to change. When we left the city behind us we found the two-lane highway heart stopping too. Cars and trucks struggled to pass each other on the busy highway.

The countryside provided a different perspective of life in India. We saw people working the fields and were impressed by the variety of agriculture that stretched to the horizon.

We spent a week at the boarding school and orphanage working alongside the staff and leading a children's program with over 300 students participating. We shared Bible lessons, led recreation and engaged the students in making crafts and art projects.

We were impressed with the hard working staff and the enthusiastic students. Students were respectful and energetic. The school provided meals, housing and a rigorous education for the children. It was a week we will always remember.

Our host drove us back to the airport in Hyderabad where we caught a flight to Delhi in northern India. We couldn't leave this beautiful country without seeing the Taj Mahal. This magnificent structure is located about two hours outside of Delhi. It is listed as one of the Seven Wonders of the World.

Several of our neighbors in Diamond Bar are from Indian descent. They are delightful people who are proud of their heritage. I love to tell them about our trip to India. It is a beautiful country with beautiful people. Let me encourage you to set your sights on visiting other parts of the world. Get outside the tourist centers and catch a glimpse of daily life in the country. And get to know your own neighbors who have come from other parts of the world. You will be glad you did and they will too!

Deliberate Confidence

Pastor Dennis Morales

"But the Lord stood with me and strengthened me..." 2 Timothy 4:17

What gives you confidence? Watching the "2020" Olympics, I can't help but be impressed by the confidence of the athletes who are on one of the biggest stages of their lives. Families and whole countries are cheering them on and hoping they bring home the gold. It would seem a lifetime of training, a strong support system, a focused mind, and for some faith, has given these athletes such strong confidence. Paul the Apostle used athletic metaphors often. One of his last metaphors he employed was of both a fighter and runner. As Paul was penned his swan song letter to Timothy, he says "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith" (2 Timothy 4:7). What is most impressive is that he wrote these words from prison, with few friends left. In prison for his faith in Christ. Having few friends willing to stand with him for fear of their own lives, or because of societal shame. What then gave Paul confidence? Paul experienced God standing with him in past circumstances and difficulties. He also knew countless others were spurred to faith in Christ through his chains as his faith was on display (Philippians 1:12). Many saw the reality of Christ power in his willingness to suffer for Christ. Oswald Chambers once said, "Faith is deliberate confidence in the character of God whose ways you may not understand at the time." Paul found himself at times in chains, being beaten, shipwrecked, and even abandoned, but those were times when he knew the Lord was closest and stood with him (2 Timothy 4:17). Paul said, "none of these things move me" so to finish his race with joy (Acts 20:24). Joy in the fact that he would finish his race on this side of Heaven with unwavering faith. Deliberate confidence is (Faith) that God is always in control. The Lord stood with Paul as Paul stood with the Lord. I pray you that you live deliberately confident in the fact that God hears you and is standing with you.

Autism Mom: A New School Year

Melody Kraemer

A new school year! Who is ready? I have enjoyed these past summer months with my kids at home, and it seemed we were off to some adventure almost every day.

It could be that we subconsciously are making up for the summer before when we were in "lockdown." The summer, let alone this year, has flown by in a blink of an eye. Now the kids will be starting school, and though that much-needed break between us is probably needed. I will miss the lazy days of sleeping in, the swimming, the extended sunshine days, no schedules, and all the downtime. Now isn't that what summer is all about?

In a few short days, we will buckle back down and get back on our daily schedule. It won't be easy, and granted, I should have stayed on a schedule during the summer, but my kids needed this break and had only a few short weeks of summer. With my boys having ASD, autism spectrum disorder, they attended ESY (extended school year). So these few weeks of summer were precious to us, we enjoyed them and made as many memories as we could.

My youngest will even be going back to school with a brand new look. He decided to find his daddy's beard trimmer and start shaving his head. There's never a dull moment in our world, now onto the next season of life. Reach out and let me know if you are ready for school.

Skydiving a Life-changing Check Off My Bucket List

Nancy Stoops

I have lived a very exciting and fulfilling life. I have travelled to all seven continents, have had many close-up wildlife experiences, worked with shamans and chiefs, meditated with the monks in Thailand, swam with sharks, have two published books on Amazon and so much more. My bucket list was very short because at sixty-five I really have done it all. Skydiving was always on that list and it seems like every time I was ready to go, we would have a death in the family. Well in July I finally had the opportunity to finally go and it was life-changing. I have never felt such freedom as I did jumping out of a plane at 14,000 feet. As a child I would have flying dreams and on that day my dreams came true and I was flying like a bird. Skydiving also reminded me that there isn't anything that I can't work through or accomplish.

I think Covid has left many of us complacent because our lives got shut down and we got comfortable in that. I know many people are having a hard time going back to school, work and just generally back into life. Skydiving was a great way to awaken me and all of my senses. I just feel so very alive again and excited for the next adventure. I hope you can find something to wake you up and make you part of the living again. Try to fight the fears and the lies that hold you hostage from the life you deserve to have. You deserve to be excited, fulfilled, happy and content. Make today the day you start living your best life and being your best self!!!
