New Radar Speed Signs In Eastvale

STAFF REPORTS

Eastvale - The City of Eastvale Public Works team and the Riverside County Sheriff's Department recently met to discuss the possible installation of radar speed signs in the City. "Radar speed signs are traffic signs that alert drivers of their speed when driving by, helping them stay within the speed limit," stated the City.

Both teams meet every month to discuss "safety concerns, traffic concerns, traffic count updates, community feedback, and more," according to the City. The Eastvale Public Works Team is committed to the maintenance and operation of the City of Eastvale's infrastructure, according to the City website.

In the past, many residents have expressed their concern of speeding taking place throughout the community. Therefore, the potential speed signs may be a possible solution to the current issue.

However, when the City posted on their social media about the speed signs, many residents commented against them saying they wouldn't fix the problem. Many suggested other solutions such as cameras, speed bumps, and more law enforcement.

Mayor Pro Tem Todd Rigby also commented on the post stating, "Part of the purpose of speed radar signs is to collect data (speed mph, time of day, frequency, etc.). This data

Tint Your Windows At Mr. Tint

STAFF REPORTS

Norco - Car window tinting is one of the best ways to improve the look and comfort of your vehicle. You can protect the interior of the vehicle from sun damage by tinting the windows. Sunlight and heat can cause your interior, like seats and the dashboard, to fade, crack and deteriorate. Window tinting reduces the sunlight allowed into the vehicle, which in turn reduces how hot it gets inside your car. Likewise, homes and offices heat up during the day, and trying to keep your air-conditioner ahead of the game

Happy Father's Day?

MICHAEL ARMIJO

Each year it comes and goes, all too fast, all too quickly. Just like my father's life, Father's Day sneaks up on me and then leaves unexpectedly. All is gone, and all is forgotten.

My father and I had a very rough relationship when I was growing up; I don't recall telling him I loved him until I was in my late 20's. We missed so much with each other; we missed a time that every child needs in order to survive, every child deserves when they walk this Earth, every child wants to reflect back upon and has a right to for a strong and independent life. Life with a father.

I missed so much with my dad, but the last five years of his life we became best friends. I miss him so much. What hurts me deep inside though was that those five fast years did me a world of good, but it has been a struggle to hold on to them. Over 25 years of a poor relationship life is hard to erase with just five years of a bond. The baseball games, the football games. The guidance, the knowledge. I tried so hard to be a good kid, I just didn't know how. I needed a father to show me a strong example that I could see and respect each day, but I just didn't have that.

I believe the importance in being a father each day, and not waiting, or procrastinating.

Spend time TODAY. I believe in the importance of listening to your kids, knowing their favorite color, their favorite food, their favorite TV shows. The color of their eyes, the texture of their hair. The texture of their skin, the size of their palms. And to know these things by association, not because you've asked them. I've sat and listened to my kids and looked deep into their eyes. I can close my eyes and describe every inch of both my daughter and my son's face. The trends in my life were set differently, and I've managed to change them so I wouldn't have the regrets many fathers do. It wasn't easy to learn how to love, but I really do love my children, something I had to learn, something I don't remember having while growing up. Something that was very hard to feel comfortable with.

When you make that effort in being a good father, you'll understand why when your kids turn out to be these wonderful, caring individuals that overcome the harshness of society. When they tread new paths and enlighten your life. When they become successful young adults in an honest, professional industry. When they make the right decisions based on character and integrity because they saw their mother and father do the same. At that time, you'll understand the hard work paid off.

Happy Father's Day. Each year it comes far too fast, far too quickly. Just like life. But Father's Day isn't just about honoring your father on a special day or receiving gifts from your children; it's about father's earning the privilege to have a day to be honored, earning the privilege in BEING a father. When your kids call your name, just the joy of hearing the word "Dad," is a gift of love and respect we receive from our kids. And then you'll feel that every day is truly Father's Day.

Please be assured that our Department works diligently to identify specifics on each incident and has not been able to confirm any credible threats.

In addition, many studies have shown that radar speed signs can be effective. According to radarsign.com, "studies repeatedly show that when alerted by a radar sign, speeders will slow down up to 80% of the time. Typical average speed reductions are 10-20%, and overall compliance with the posted speed limit will increase by 30-60%.

Lazy Dad

Mark Hopper

When our kids were young we enjoyed camping in the beautiful White Mountains in eastern Arizona. We had a Coleman tent, a Coleman stove and a Coleman lantern. We camped along a bubbling mountain stream in the Upper Log Creek campground. The bathroom facility was a rickety wooden outhouse. It was pretty primitive but we have a lot of good memories of the times we spent there.

We also enjoyed camping with other families. One had a motor home and another had a pop-up tent trailer. We had the leaky canvas Coleman tent. Our kids enjoyed playing with the other kids. The older kids watched over the younger kids. The mothers liked to enjoy time together and the dads liked to fish in the beautiful mountain stream.

One day one of my daughters asked if she could try fishing. I was busy trying to catch my own fish and we didn't have any extra fishing rods. But one of the other dads found a stick and put a hook and fishing line on it. Then he put some bait on the hook and helped my daughter to carefully climb out onto a dead tree limb so she could put her fishing line in the stream.

Suddenly she felt a tug on her fishing line. She caught a fish! But she was so excited that she fell off the dead tree branch and into the cold mountain creek. I was able to wade into the cold water and help her get back to dry land. But in all of the excitement she never let go of her fishing pole. She had caught a fish and she wasn't letting go.

We still smile when we reflect on the day she caught a fish with a stick, line and hook. But as I look back on that event I realize that I had not been a good dad. I had been lazy. I didn't want to stop what I was doing to help make her a fishing pole. Thankfully another dad did and she caught her own fish.

There is a verse in the Bible that says "Jesus did not come to be served but to serve others" (Mark 10:45). He put the needs and requests of others ahead of his own interests. This was a lesson I needed to learn too. I had put my own interests ahead of the needs of one of my kids. That day I was a lazy dad. Let me encourage you to put the needs and requests of your family ahead of your own. Be a servant leader. Be ready to respond to their requests. Watch for ways to help them and encourage them. You will be glad you did and they will be too.

God Is Speaking...

Pastor Dennis Morales

John 10:3 "... and the sheep recognize His voice and come to Him. He calls His own sheep by name and leads them out..."

We lost one of our sons at Knott's Berry Farm once and it was absolutely, not a good feeling. Our family began shouting his name. This went on it seemed for about 1 or 2 minutes. It seemed like 30 minutes. Then I jumped in at the top of my voice and shouted my son's name. A few seconds later, I was relieved to see a security attendant coming over holding my son's hand. She explained that she saw my son was lost and she went to him. He said that he was looking for his papa. The security attendant said "suddenly, he began to say 'Papa! Papa!'" She knew that he had heard my voice. He then quickly took her in the direction of my voice. Out of a crowd of thousands, my son heard my voice. When God says something, it's for good a reason and worth obeying. When he calls, it may be to say "stop," "go this way," or it may even be "not that way!" His voice is one that calls us, guides us, and protects us. God spoke audibly to some, such as Moses and Abraham, but God also speaks clearly through the pages of the Bible. There is a lot of noise in the world that can get in the way. The noise can be in the form of social media, TV, or even politics. But the more you read the Scriptures, the more readily you will know when God is speaking. Think about this for a minute. There is always music or talk on the radio. But you only hear the radio when it's turned on and tuned in. God is always speaking. The question is are you open and tuned in to His voice? The word "leads" in this verse speaks of "leading out." He knows the way and He is willing to lead you out of whatever you are going through and into His green pastures (Ps 95:7).

Summer

Melody Kraemer

When I think all is calm and I'm finally getting a grasp on things, something comes along that shakes my world.

Oh, these last few days haven't been easy, though. It's summer and the kids are out of school. I have one that will be going into Jr high and one into high school in the fall. It may seem like a small change and butterflies in the stomach entering into a new environment. But...in the autism world, it's more like buffalos in the stomach, the gut-wrenching feeling of the unknown.

I got comfortable with our team at the school. Yes, there's a team for my boys. It's not only the teachers; so many more people are involved. I am sure that trying to schedule an IEP with all involved is very hectic, so my schedule best be open when I get that notice.

Two new schools, two new teams, new faces, a new environment, new bus drivers, new schedules, and so on have given me more anxiety than I care to deal with.

As I am trying to deal with this anxiety and grasp what is to come, I tell myself, let's enjoy these summer months and put those anxiety feelings on hold. That's easier said than done when I realized my youngest, semi nonverbal autistic child, got into my passcodes and decided he wanted to order a $3000.00 playset for the backyard from Amazon. Plus other items he decided he wanted. I canceled all the orders except the $3000.00 one. Having put my anxiety on the back burner, it's now up front and center. I have to take a deep breath and remind myself Romans 15:13

May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace as you trust in him, so that you may overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.

Here's to a wonderful happy, stress-free summer.

Your Child's Best & Most Productive Summer

Nancy Stoops

I am a very big believer in rest and relaxation and feel summer is a great time to do that. I take a lot of time off in the summer to do exactly that but I must feel my summer is also productive as well. I force myself to move at a much slower pace and I do play a lot more but I try to remember the concept of balance as well. Summer also allows for some unique activities.

Please allow me to explain what I mean here. I see summer as a time to work on special talents and projects. Having a project can be very grounding and give you something to be working toward, which I believe is a very important concept. This doesn't in anyway, take away from very well deserved break.

The other really great piece about all of this is your child won't lose all of their skills over the summer and returning to school will be easier. Common sense tells us, if we don't use something for three months our skills can become rusty. By allowing our children to do absolutely nothing over the summer we are not doing them a favor, we are doing them a grave injustice. Encourage your children to read a book, write a story about something fun, walk the dog to keep their muscles strong, help you add and subtract how many miles you'll be traveling this vacation, understand why when you throw the ball up, it always comes back down, and just keep learning the whole summer through.

Teaching them the way to find that balance that will enhance their relaxation, make them feel good about their productivity and allow them to have more fun than they ever have!!!!
